Ford Announces Wage Increase Of $20,000,000 Year

140,000 MEN AFFECTED BY NEW RAISES

Minimum Salary Is Jumped From $6 to $7 Per Day In Third Big Adjustment

ALREADY IN EFFECT

Employees Getting Between $7 and $10 Day Receive Five Per Cent Increase

DETROIT, Dec. 3.—(UP)—The Ford Motor company will spend $20,000,000 a year to raise the minimum wages of its workers from $6 to $7 a day, Edsel Ford announced today. Wages of those workers who were receiving more than the $6 minimum wage will be increased five per cent.

The raises were effective Sunday, December 1.

They will cost the Ford company approximately $1,628,000 a month on the basis of the October payroll, which will be greatly increased when spring production gets under way.

Only workers in the Ford plants of the United States are included in the increase, but Ford of Canada is expected to follow suit as it has followed previous price and wage changes.

On the basis of October payrolls 24,320 employees, who were making $6 a day, will now receive $7 and approximately 115,640 workers, now receiving $7 to $10 per day, will be advanced five per cent of their daily wage.

Probation Scale Jumps

The $5 wage given to "probationary workers" and apprentices is increased to $6.

Edsel Ford's statement came little more than a week after Henry Ford announced at President Hoover's conference in Washington that Ford wages would be generally increased.

The new wage scale will work out according to the following table:

27,410 men will receive $7.20 per day.
33,396 men will receive $7.40 per day.
22,971 men will receive $8.00 per day.
12,327 men will receive $8.40 per day.
17,539 men will receive $8.40 to $10.00 per day.

Plants Throughout U. S.

Ford assembly plants are located in Atlanta, Buffalo, Charlotte, N. C., Chester, Pa., Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Dallas, Denver, Des Moines, Detroit, Houston, Indianapolis, Jacksonville, Kansas City, Kearney, N. J., Los Angeles, Louisville, Memphis, Milwaukee, New Orleans, Norfolk, Oklahoma City, Omaha, Pittsburgh, Portland, San Francisco, Seattle, Somerville, Mass., St. Louis, Minneapolis and St. Paul.

Besides these assembly plants, the workers in the Ford coil mill and other subsidiary industries will be affected.

The present increase is the third major wage adjustment to be made by Ford. In January, 1919, wages were increased from a minimum of $2.34 per day to $5, and the working day was cut from 9 to 8 hours.

That increase totaled $11,000,000 and $6,000,000 more was added to the payroll total for new employees.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:
SHE'S A PAT. OFF.

Henry Ford, whose recent statement in Washington, D. C., that a general wage increase would be effected throughout his gigantic motor industries was followed today by announcement of those increases by his son, Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor company.

75 DEATHS ARE ATTRIBUTED TO MIDWEST COLD

Relief, With Temperatures Raising to 30 Degrees, Seen for Tomorrow

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—(UP)—Winter besieged the upper Mississippi valley today with reserves of snow, ice and bitter cold rushed down from the north in the third change within a week.

Armies of men with shovels and fleets of snow sweepers toiled in midwestern cities removing the heavy fall of the last few days as the latest cold wave bore down on a large area, centering in Chicago.

Relief was promised tomorrow by the weather forecaster here. He said temperatures likely would mount to 30 degrees, the first approach to normal in five days.

A mounting toll of death from freezing, asphyxiation in rooms too tightly closed against the cold and accidents on streets and highways made treacherous by snow and ice accompanied the latest cold wave.

At Least 75 Dead

At least 75 were dead from causes directly attributable to the storms and hundreds were injured in falls, various accidents, or suffered from exposure.

The coldest place in the United States yesterday was Devil's Lake, N. D., with a 14 below zero reading. It was 6 below in Denver, where there was eight inches of snow.

Ten inches of snow fell in Galesburg, Ill., the heaviest early season fall on record there. Highway traffic was badly crippled.

The coldest weather of the season was felt in the Missouri river valley states. It got down to 10 degrees above zero in Kansas City and to five above in Beatrice, Neb.

Zero temperatures were widespread over Minnesota and the Dakotas, with a heavy blizzard raging. Eastward, in northern Michigan, drifts tossed about by a dying snowstorm blocked roads.

Hunters who had been imprisoned in the woods for several days fought their way to villages and thawed out frostbitten toes and ears.

Lake Traffic Cautious

Lake traffic plied cautiously, with the fate of the grain steamer Kiowa, six of whose crew were drowned in a blizzard after the craft went aground, as a warning.

Most boats had scurried through a channel opened in the ice in the St. Mary's river from Lake Superior to Lake Huron to escape the ice blockade that at any moment was expected to shut off the river for the rest of the winter.

Petition For Recall Of S.A. Council Filed

Names of 2296 Voters Are On Document Charging Mismanagement

THE MOVEMENT of the Citizens' league for recall of the five members of the city council was definitely on today. The recall petition was in the hands of City Clerk E. L. Vegely, with the signatures of 2296 voters attached.

The petition was filed just before the office of the city clerk closed for the day yesterday and Vegely started early this morning on the work of checking the signatures against the great register.

The checking of 2296 names is going to be a big task, Vegely said, as he pointed out that he would have to locate the voting precinct of each subscriber in order to check against his registration.

The information as to the precinct of the individual signer is not given in the petition. Preparation of precinct maps will be one of the first steps necessary, the clerk said.

Will Employ Help

The clerk has 10 days in which to certify the signatures as to their correctness and as to their registration and Vegely said today that he would employ enough help to get through the work on time.

The petition, however, cannot be presented to the council before Monday night, December 16, as that is the first meeting date of the body after the time allowed the clerk for checking. If the clerk certifies the sufficiency of the petition, the council must hold the election within 40 days from December 16.

The recall is directed at the council because of its action in proceedings for the opening of Santa Ana boulevard under the assessment district plan. The project, it is estimated, will cost $360,000 and the entire city will be formed into an assessment district for the payment of bonds that will be issued against the city.

Mismanagement of city affairs is charged in the petition, a paragraph of which reads:

"Grounds upon which the recall of said persons is sought are that they have assumed an arbitrary and dictatorial attitude toward the citizens of Santa Ana and have used bad judgment in the management of city affairs."

61 Circulators Named

Filing of the recall revealed that 61 persons circulated petitions, the circulators being as follows:

George Spencer, Alex. Grant, J. W. Patterson, Richard Peterson, Frank L. Austin, Flora Patterson, Theodore G. Gowdy, J. I. Clark, Clara V. Bullock, Wayne Goble, Mrs. Amanda McGarvin, M. Milford Cope, Adam A. Schlasmann, Gust W. Anderson, S. A. Clark, W. T. Dorrance, J. C. Metzgar.

Eunice Pringle On Stand In Perjury Trial Of Salesman

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3.—(UP)—Eunice Pringle, 17-year-old dancer, for attacking whom Alexander Pantages recently was found guilty and sentenced to state's prison, was expected to take the witness stand today in the trial of Garland Biffie, law book salesman, charged with giving perjured testimony in the Pantages case.

Biffie testified that he overheard a conversation between Miss Pringle and her manager, Nick Dunae, in which the latter said, "Don't get cold feet," and Miss Pringle assertedly replied, "Don't worry; I won't if he doesn't book my act he will be sorry."

The principal witness at yesterday's session of the trial was L. A. Mills, Stockton attorney, who testified that only a few weeks before the Pantages trial began Biffie told him he knew nothing about the case.

99-YEAR LEASE TAKEN ON BALBOA PROPERTY; HOTEL BUILDING IS CONTEMPLATED

NEWPORT BEACH, Dec. 3.—The third 99-year lease in the history of Orange county, it is said, has just been effected here, involving a total consideration in rentals of approximately $750,000 and paving the way for a new business block, perhaps a hotel, in the center of Balboa's business section.

The lessor is Edward H. Allen, Los Angeles attorney, the lessees being A. M. Hamann, Henry Walker and Herman Walker, druggists. They have leased the corner of Main street and Ocean front, with a frontage of 95 feet on Main street and 135 feet on the ocean promenade.

Hamann and Henry Walker now own the Santa Ana Drug store in Santa Ana, and the Balboa pharmacy, in Balboa, and these two and Herman Walker, a student in the University of Southern California, will operate another drug store in part of the business block they will build on the leased property.

Architects now are submitting plans for the new building. It is expected that it will be ready for occupancy when the next summer season starts in Balboa.

The lease ends Dec. 31, 2028. It is a 35-page document. The deal was put through by Louis W. Briggs, Balboa realtor. The only two other 99-year leases in Orange county are said to be on properties in Anaheim and Laguna Beach.

Briggs also has sold the house and lot at 1607 East Bay front, Balboa, for Mrs. Fanny S. Dodge, of Los Angeles, to Arthur W. Colby, of Pasadena, for a cash consideration reported to be in the neighborhood of $20,000.

FRUIT BRINGS $1,590,744 IN NOVEMBER

ORANGE, Dec. 3.—Returns from citrus sales by the Orange County Fruit exchange for the month of November totaled $1,590,744.81, according to a report given by L. D. Palmer, member of the exchange, yesterday.

The month is the first of the fiscal year, the season's business coming to a close last October.

The shipments included 429 cars of Valencia oranges of 462 boxes per car and 18 cars of lemons with 348 boxes to a car.

Receipts for the same month in 1928 reached the sum of $969,688.59 with three cars of Valencia shipped and 15 cars of lemons. In both years a number of the cars shipped in October were included in the November returns. The number of cars shipped this year totals 7700.

Prospects for the next year's crop are good, according to R. E. Headley, in charge of the sales department. Some damage was done by the recent electrical winds, he said. On the whole the crop promises to be one of good sizes.

RAIN PREDICTED BY FRIDAY OR SATURDAY

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 3.—(UP)—Rain for California by the end of the week was predicted today by the United States weather bureau.

"There are excellent indications," said M. B. Summers, acting senior meteorologist, "that the storm area will reach this coast by Friday or Saturday."

At the present time, Summer said, there is a disturbance halfway between the California coast and Hawaii. The disturbance is gradually growing stronger and is moving toward the California coast.

Vital Statistics Chief Accused In Charges By State

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 3.—(UP)—Formal charges of "incompetency, inefficiency, dishonesty and violation of the state civil service law," by which the state expects to remove L. E. Ross, chief of the bureau of vital statistics, were filed with the civil service commission today by Dr. Walter M. Dickie, director of public health.

The accusations include the following:

That Ross engaged in the business of selling personal credentials and issuing records of vital statistics under the mythical firm name "The Security Service Corporation," his chief patron being F. W. Peterson, of Los Angeles.

AWAIT REPLIES TO STIMSON'S PEACE APPEAL

France, Britain and Italy Back Attempt to Stop China Warfare

By LYCLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(UP)—Secretary of State Stimson's summons to 53 nations to condemn Soviet Russia and Chinese hostilities after adherence to the treaty for renunciation of war awaited reply today from all but a few of the signatory powers.

Stimson undertook to mobilize world opinion on an unprecedented scale when he invoked the so-called Kellogg pact and appealed to world opinion for its enforcement.

He announced he had remonstrated with Soviet Russia and China after consultation with Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy and Japan.

Acted Independently

He invited those nations to join the United States, which acted independently, and subsequently asked each of the remaining 47 signatories to remonstrate with Nanking and Moscow.

The United States communication to Nanking and Moscow did not attempt to define recent Manchurian hostilities as "war." Stimson based his remonstrance on article two of the pact, which says:

"The high contracting parties agree that the settlement or solution of all disputes or conflicts of whatever nature or of whatever origin they may be, which may arise among them, shall never be sought by pacific means."

No Distinction

No distinction was made by Stimson between Soviet Russia and China so far as responsibility for hostilities. But he said if recent Manchurian event were permitted to pass without notice or protest by signatories the strength of public opinion support of peace would be impaired. Any government, in Stimson's opinion, must be concerned by threat of war which is dangerous far beyond its point of origin.

France, Great Britain and Italy already have announced they would follow Stimson in remonstrating against the Manchurian conflict.

NINE EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS RECORDED

Speedy Action On Tariff, Tax Bills Is Seen

Opposition Quiet as Chief Executive Fails to Lay Blame for Delay

BY PAUL R. MALLON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(UP)—The nation needs a tax reduction and a tariff bill speedily, President Hoover told congress today in a conciliatory annual message, and the leaders of both houses grabbed their pens immediately to announce the president's wishes would be fulfilled.

The $160,000,000 tax reduction already has been started and has a clear road ahead for enactment into law before Christmas. The tariff is to be pressed with renewed vigor in the senate immediately and promises were offered by the leaders that it, too, would be a law before the winter snows are off the ground.

The president's 12,000-word document on the state of the union, stressing these two major problems was read by the clerks of both houses soon after they convened at noon for the second day of the regular session.

Galleries Filled

The galleries were full and the floors were well represented with senators and representatives as the clerk expounded the legislative recommendations of Mr. Hoover upon all the subjects confronting the government, foreign relations, waterways, reorganization, Muscle Shoals, water power development, radio, railroads and prohibition.

The understanding tone of the message caught the fancy of the senate, where there has been considerable strife over the tariff bill and where the recommendations of the chief executive were rebuffed during the special session frequenting particularly with reference to the debenture plan, the action repealing the flexible provision of the tariff act.

The immediate reaction, however, was a statement from Chairman Smoot, of the senate finance committee, that the tax reduction would have the right-of-way in the senate and that the tariff bill might be taken up again before night, at the point where the senate adjourned.

Booths Filled

Smoot intends to demand that daily sessions begin at 10 a. m. and continue until 5 p. m., so the tariff can be rushed, he said. If it is not enacted before Christmas, it will be done early in January, he added. A promise of speed also was offered by the coalition leader, Senator Borah, of Idaho.

The house leaders also were optimistic about getting the bill into final shape after it passes the senate. Republican Floor Leader Tillman estimated the conference would require no more than a week and Democratic floor leader Garner said, "Two weeks at the most."

While the statement appeared somewhat exaggerated to the senators who have been fighting so vigorously among themselves and against the house, it was evident no delay was to be contemplated.

There seems to be no doubt about action on the tax reduction.

SEN. VARE READY TO ADDRESS SENATE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(UP)—After knocking for three years at the portals of the United States, Senator-elect William S. Vare of Pennsylvania was ready to enter the chamber today to conduct personally his fight for a seat.

Recovered from two paralytic strokes, but still enfeebled, the industrial Philadelphia Republican leader has prepared a statement of his case which he desired to submit before the senate decides his fate.

Vare will be one of the few ever to address the senate under such circumstances. He was granted that unusual privilege when his friends raised the cry that he was being prevented from saying a word in his own defense, whereas that right would be his in any court.

OPTIMISTIC NOTE SOUNDED BY PRESIDENT IN ANNUAL MESSAGE TO U. S. CONGRESS

Business Confidence Restored; Problems of Progress Now Greatest, Asserts Chief Executive

LAW ENFORCEMENT STRESSED

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(UP)—Renewing his recommendation for limited tariff changes as outlined in the special session last April, President Hoover in his first annual message to congress said:

"It would be most helpful if action should be taken at an early moment, more especially at a time when business and agriculture are both co-operating to minimize future uncertainties," the president declared. "It is just that they should know what the rates are to be."

In his first comprehensive survey of the domestic and international position of the nation since he entered the White House, the president outlined a broad program for dealing with the "problems of growth and progress," which, he declared, are the chief problems confronting the new session of congress.

With confidence restored in business, the president said in viewing the achievements of the recent White House conferences, with the country's leading financiers, labor leaders and business men, the nation is on a steady economic keel.

Highlights Of Hoover Address

"To preserve internal order and freedom from encroachment is the first purpose of the government."

"The problems with which we are confronted are the problems of growth and progress."

"I have also appointed a voluntary committee of distinguished membership to assist in a nationwide movement for the abolition of illiteracy."

"Our laws are made by the people themselves; theirs is the right to work for their repeal; but until repeal, it is an equal duty to observe them and demand their enforcement."

"The first duty of the president under his oath of office is to secure the enforcement of the laws.... If law is upheld only by government officials, then all law is at end."

"His attitude may be obscure, but it cannot conceal the ugly truth that the law breaker, whoever he may be, is the enemy of society."

"I know of no expenditure of public money from which a greater economic and moral return can come to us than by assuring the most effective conduct of our foreign relations."

Sears Roebuck Merger Plan Is Denied By Penney

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—(UP)—Executives of the J. C. Penney company have not discussed merger plans with Sears Roebuck, they announced today. E. C. Sams, president of P. C. Penney company, said:

"Some time ago a committee was chosen from our executives to study the economic advantages that might grow out of the merging of our organization with one or the other of the large mail order houses."

"There are many unsolved problems in the field of distribution. Mass production has outstripped the facilities of distribution wherever possible improvement is being made in the economics of merchandising in order to provide a better service for consumer as well as generate a greater enthusiasm among workers."

Supervisors Get Capistrano Water District Petition

HEARING WILL BE HELD HERE LAST OF MONTH

A decision on the part of the citizens of San Juan Capistrano to protect their rights and obtain their share of the water supply in that district was seen today in the presentation of a petition to the county board of supervisors asking for the formation of a water district to be known as Orange County Water Works District No. 4, San Juan Capistrano.

The petition, which was presented to the board by Attorney L. A. West on behalf of the petitioners, carried the signatures of more than 25 per cent of the property owners in the district set forth, and according to the sworn testimony of those taking the signatures, represented more nearly 75 per cent of the property owners.

Frederick Stoffel and Parris Kelly, of San Juan Capistrano, appeared before the board and testified as to the taking of the signatures on the petition.

The estimated cost of the proposed improvement is set forth in the petition at $45,000, of which amount $2500 was estimated to be for incidental expenses. The supervisors set December 31 as the date for the hearing on the matter at which time they would receive any protests that might be made and any other information relative to the project.

Following the hearing, if the board grants the petition, an election will be called in the district as set forth in the petition in which the proposition and a bond issue to cover the costs of the project will be placed before the voters of the district for their decision.

The purposes of the formation of the district are set forth as the acquisition of existing water systems serving the vicinity of the mission city with domestic water; acquisition of a site and construction of a 250,000 gallon capacity concrete reservoir; acquisition of sites and drilling water wells and installation of pumps; installation of a new system of water mains; and installation of nine fire hydrants.

Manager Of Oil Company Raised To Modesto Office

L. F. Carey, for the past three years assistant district manager here for the Richfield Oil company, departed this afternoon for Modesto, where he will take the position of manager for the company in that district. His family will follow him in a few days.

While regretting his removal from the city, friends of Carey today were congratulating him upon his promotion. The new position carries increased responsibilities and better salary.

H. R. McVay, district manager, announced that the appointment of Carey to the field in the central part of the state has resulted in the promotion here of R. B. Bird from salesman covering the coast district, to assistant manager. R. M. Wimbush, warehouse foreman, succeeds to Bird's position, and R. F. Martin is promoted from truck driver to warehouse superintendent.

bill. The house ways and means committee will report it to the house tomorrow and it will be passed there and sent to the senate Thursday night. Smoot introduced a similar resolution in the senate today but he had to abandon his plan of having the committee act upon it immediately. He did, however, get the sanction individually from members of the committee to have the resolution ready for senate consideration the latter part of this week.

Opposition Quiet

In view of the fact that the president did not seek to blame congress for anything and sympathized with its delay upon the tariff, the comment of the opposition was unusually temperate. Democrats complained generally that the chief executive had failed to make clear exactly what industrial tariff rates he wants revised.

The president's suggestion that proper building programs also be speeded up in order to aid general business conditions brought the immediate introduction of a bill in the senate by Senator Phillips, Republican, Colorado.

The bill would increase the amount of federal aid already authorized for the fiscal year, beginning July 1 next, from $75,000,000 to $125,000,000 and also provides for similar appropriations of $125,000,000 for the two succeeding years.

SCHOOL CHIEFS ATTEND DINNER IN SANTA ANA

School principals and supervisors were in attendance at the monthly council meeting of superintendents at the Julia Lathrop junior high school last evening. H. G. Nelson and Mrs. Iva Webber comprised the committee in charge of dinner arrangements.

The dinner was served by the boys' cooking class of the Lathrop school and Ray Adkinson expressed appreciation for the service and meal given guests by the boys at their first effort to please a large group of people.

Mrs. Edith Ritter, principal of the Fremont school, was elected Santa Ana representative on the California Council of Education, southern section, to succeed Miss Verna Wells, principal of Roosevelt school, whose term of office has expired.

Announcement was made relative to an election of officers for the California Teachers' association. Santa Ana was to vote today, with Robert Horn, president of the City Federation of Teachers, Miss Gladys Campbell and Miss Verna Wells acting as the election board. John Henderson, formerly of Orange and now of Burbank, was nominated to run as president against R. D. White, superintendent of Glendale.

Showing the splendid record maintained by the schools of this city, J. A. Cranston, city superintendent, reported that the Santa Ana teachers have 100 per cent membership in the city and state organizations, with 75 per cent membership in the national educational association.

Walter Morgan, chief of statistics of the state board of education, will be in Santa Ana December 11, to confer with Superintendent Cranston and R. P. Mitchell, county superintendent of schools, and the junior and senior high school principals, regarding statistics and reports.

The principals and superintendents presented Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Clayton, who were married last summer, with a reading lamp last night. The recipients of the token of esteem also received a chair, given them last week by members of the high school faculty.

Miss Linda Paul, principal of the Lincoln school, gave a report on the National Education association convention.

Reports on the manner in which lectures are received as given by Dr. Gertrude Laws were enthusiastic.

Lyle Mitchell and Mrs. Edith Thatcher will be in charge of the next meeting, January 6.

Poly Hi And Jaysee Notes

Santa Ana junior college Young Men's Christian association members will hold their next retreat at Forest Home December 14 and 15, according to George Warner, "Y" president. Tickets for the retreat may be secured from Bill Reinhardt and members of the cabinet.

Following inspection of the site of the proposed Santa Ana junior college student center, the college executive board yesterday accepted the plans proposed by Stewart McPherson, Junior Lions president. The work, which will include the cutting down of several of the larger evergreen trees on the campus north of the college building, and the laying of a cement curb around the center, is being sponsored by the Lions club. A bulletin board, drinking fountain and benches will be placed in the center, which has been under discussion for the past year.

Members of the college Y.M.C.A. discussion group will meet at 7:30 a.m. Thursday for a discussion of the topic, "Will There Be Another Dark Age After the Present Period?"

The annual Christmas meeting of the Santa Ana high school Latin club will be held December 12 in the college assembly hall, it was learned today. Plans are now being made for the affair, which promises to be one of the outstanding social affairs of the high school.

Dean McKee Flak was elected honorary member of the Jaycee Brotherhood of Bachelors at the final initiation for pledges held last week end in Laguna Beach. Other Bachelors receiving their full membership were Rodney Chamberlain, Verle Van Syke, Warren Schütz, Al Kluthe, Arthur Bedoes, Carl Planchon, Bill Crawford, Orville Schuchardt, and Crawford Nalle. It was announced today. Clever illustrations for the contributions have been made by Miss Geraldine Cole, Miss Goldie Peale, Miss Maybelle Ball and Abbott Mason. The book will contain 48 pages.

Members of the college Algot staff will hold an important meeting in the Associated Students office at 7 p.m. tomorrow, according to Miss Lavinia Compton, editor.

PLAN HOSPITAL IF QUOTA FOR COUNTY RAISED

Installation of a 10-bed hospital pavilion is programmed for the children's health camp in Santiago canyon if the Orange County Tuberculosis association is successful in raising its quota of $35,000 in the Christmas seals campaign, it was announced today by H. A. Lake, president.

"This is but one of the many needs of the hospital," Lake said, in pointing out that children in the camp are sitting at old-fashioned and ill-fitting desks in the school room.

"The school room is being heated by unsatisfactory wood stoves, and it is planned to install a centralized oil heating plant," the president said. "Proper housing of the staff is another of the many necessities. The staff is living in tents, which are especially unsatisfactory in the winter."

"Children coming into the health camp should be segregated during the first week for medical observation. Also children becoming ill during their sojourn at the camp need a place for medical attention. For these reasons, the camp needs the hospital. It is a need that cannot be ignored."

Court Notes

Rene Callons and Frank Eastman have named H. T. Dunning defendants in a suit they brought yesterday in superior court asking judgment for $1099.36. They allege in the complaint that they have threshed 274,840 pounds of beans for Dunning during the past two years at his request, the value of which at 40 cents per 100 pounds is the amount for which they are asking judgment.

Articles of amendment to the certificate of incorporation of California Dairies, incorporated, were filed with County Clerk J. M. Backs today, changing the name of the company to Western Dairy Products, incorporated. The action was taken at a meeting of the stockholders of the company at the Baltimore, Maryland, office on November 15, and was certified at the office of the secretary of states in Sacramento, November 29.

Judgment for $414.44 was rendered by Judge James L. Allen yesterday for Clayton H. Landreth, operating the Capistrano Rock and Sand company, in his action against H. G. White for $597.36. The amount furnished White during the past two years.

WIDE SEARCH IS UNDER WAY FOR DRIVER OF CAR

A county wide search for the driver of an automobile, who, according to reports made to the sheriff's office, deliberately ran down a 3-year-old child, Edward Sheldon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sheldon, of Buena Park, and then ran away from the scene of the accident, laughing, was being made by sheriff's officers today.

The little child is in the county hospital, suffering from a possible fracture of the skull and very near death. The child was run down at Marshall and Franklin streets, Buena Park, while he was walking along the road with his young brother.

According to information furnished by F. W. Howard, chief criminal deputy sheriff, in charge of the investigation, the children were walking along the road when the car, occupied by three Mexicans, went from their right side of the road, over to the left curbing, in order to strike the child. Edward's brother saw the car coming and jumped into a ditch. The little fellow was not quick enough and was struck.

The child was brought to the hospital yesterday and an operation performed to relieve the pressure on his brain. Hospital attendants were of the opinion today that he would live. Howard said today that he had several good leads on the identity of the driver of the machine and that an arrest probably would follow within a short time.

SEEK MEXICAN FOR MURDER AS MAN SUGGUMBS

The charge of murder probably will be written against Jesus Esquivil, Santa Ana Mexican, following the death at the county hospital last night of Salvador Lopez, 29, from gunshot wounds.

Lopez was shot by a man named by police as Esquivil on April 15, of this year. He had been in the county hospital ever since, battling for his life.

The shooting occurred on Logan street in Santa Ana during the course of a drunken brawl, according to the Santa Ana police department. Esquivil disappeared soon after the shooting and has not been seen since. He was the object of a county wide search for several days on a charge of attempted murder.

Coroner Charles D. Brown announced today that an inquest into the death of Lopez will be conducted at the Harrell and Brown funeral parlors late this afternoon. The body was removed there last night.

Lopez was shot with a pistol, the bullet penetrating the chest and lodging in his spine.

NO PLANS FOR GRADE SCHOOL FOR MEXICANS

The board of education does not contemplate construction of a school for Mexicans at the site on Santa Clara avenue, where it is proposed to locate the Herbert Hoover grammar school building, it was revealed at the office of the board of education today.

The planning commission had before it yesterday afternoon a resolution of the board of education asking confirmation of the purchase of a two-acre tract to add to the Hoover school site, the resolution carrying the statement that the additional property was required for erection of a school for Mexicans. The planning commission passed the resolution to the council for its consideration and with a request that a map of the tract be filed with it. Objection also was made to facing the school on a much travelled highway. The quoted price on the property is $10,000.

The council was in doubt as to the resolution being correct in declaring that a Mexican school was to be located on the property, and the resolution was referred back to the board of education. Today it was explained that reference to the Mexican school was an error, and that the additional acreage was required to enlarge the play grounds.

Investigations will be made by the council as to the effect of the city's bus service and as to legal methods that may be adopted for control of taxis. This was indicated by discussions on the taxi situation in the city at the meeting of the council last night.

"It is more important to the city to have a good bus service than it is to have a large number of taxis services," said Councilman Stanley Goode, in introducing the subject of possible control of the public vehicles.

"It is getting so that a man with a machine, if he can't find something else to work at, starts a taxi service, with the result that many such services are being introduced," said the councilman. He asserted that under such conditions there could be no stability to the services.

City Attorney Swanner advised that the city could not sell a franchise for a taxi service because cars do not run over a specified route, but he said that taxi activities could be controlled by ordinance.

In the general discussion on the subject, it was said that some of the long established taxi services had adopted the policy of having employees secure permits for operation at certain locations in order to prevent opposition acquiring sites suitable for headquarters.

With complaints being made against merchants who have been violating an ordinance limiting the placing of display of goods on the sidewalk to within 18 inches of the front of a store building, first reading was given an ordinance amending the old one. The amendments prohibit the use of any portion of the sidewalk for display of wares.

Mrs. H. S. Echols communicated with the board asking that her name be taken from a petition in circulation for the opening of Garney street through Tenth. The petition has not been filed with the council.

Request of Charles Weston for permission to construct a chicken house at 1515 East First was referred to Councilmen Chaney, McBride and Goode.

Acceptance was given a map of tract No. 953, a new subdivision being opened up between Russell street and Fairview avenue and Lowell and Olive streets by McNaughton, Clark and Oleson.

First reading was given an ordinance amending the building ordinance. The amendment requires the use of proper sheathing in building construction and eliminates the use of wire exclusively in such work.

Dimes Of City Councilmen Pay Penalty

Yes, Santa Ana city councilmen have a heart! This was demonstrated at the meeting of the city governing body last night when each member dug down in his jeans and produced a dime to pay the penalty attached to Althouse and Mahler because they had failed to pay on time the license charge for operation of the business of gathering old papers.

According to B. S. Allhouse the delinquency was due to the belief that a former license payment carried the firm to a date beyond the delinquency period.

TAX REFUND OF $7823 SOUGHT IN SUIT HERE

Suit was filed against Orange county yesterday afternoon by the Associated Oil company asking judgment through the superior court to enforce payment of a refund for a tax payment and which is claimed was based on a statement of real and personal property presented to the county assessor in which oil officials inadvertently made an error in the number of barrels of oil produced during a year on a certain piece of property in the county.

A claim for the refund amounting to $7823.57, the amount for which judgment is asked in the suit, was presented to the county supervisors last August, who refused to allow the claim on the grounds that they had no authority to do so without a court order.

The complaint recites that the statement of real and personal property submitted to the assessor in April, 1928, by the oil company, showed that in the year ending March 1, 1928, 486,064 barrels of oil had been produced from a certain piece of property owned in this county, but that this figure was in error and that the actual production was 126,132 barrels. It further claims that the assessed valuation on this basis should be $66,220 and not $255,200 as assessed on the figure given in error.

Taxes amounting to $10,986.50 were paid the assessor on June 20, 1928 based on the incorrect statement of production, and they ask a refund to set the tax at the right figure for the actual production.

Auto Of Pastor Taken By Thief

BUNDLE OF OLD CLOTHES PRICE OF ADMISSION

Bundles galore of old clothes will be collected at the Elks clubhouse tomorrow night, it was anticipated today by W. R. Majors, secretary, as the result of the lodge fixing a bundle of old clothes as the admission price to the lodge's entertainment, dance and card party programmed for the clubhouse tomorrow evening.

The entertainment program will start at 8 o'clock and will continue for one hour, when dancing and cards will engage the attention of the merry-makers. Majors pointed out today that it has been the annual custom to distribute in the Christmas holidays old clothes to the needy of the city. Many fine suits of clothes and dresses, as well as other wearing apparel, have been donated to the club in the past for the free distribution, and it is anticipated that this year the lodge will have available more wearables even than in past years.

"Most every one has discarded clothing that the poor would appreciate, and the annual raid on the attic is beneficial to the owner as well as to the recipient," the secretary commented.

RALLY PLANNED AT LIGHTHOUSE DEC 5

Mrs. Alice Wilson Parham will bring the message tomorrow evening and address the congregation on the subject "Two Pence." A song rally will also be conducted at the service by the Rev. Mr. Parham. Lorne F. Fox, Canadian pianist, will appear with special musical selections. A rally of the churches from 12 different cities in the southern district will be staged at the local tabernacle Thursday. Ministers and delegates will be in attendance.

Huntington Beach Pier Repairs To Cost $60,000

CITY COUNCIL MEETS DEC. 6 FOR DECISION

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 3.—Engineer Thomas Berry and City Engineer Mervin Rosson made a detailed report of the condition of the municipal pier at last night's meeting of the city council. They recommended immediate repairs to the pier, estimating the cost would be $60,000. The report also embodied the cost of a 500-extension to the pier, the estimate on this extension cost being $82,000, built of the same material and corresponding in form to the present pier.

The pier was built 15 years ago and the engineers reported that the action of the sea water and air had caused the concrete to deteriorate and the steel to corrode. The damaged portions were all above low water line. Beneath the water the pier was practically undamaged, the report states. The report covers 22 typewritten pages and the city council set December 6 as the date for taking the matter up again and arriving at some decision on the report.

The waste water disposal question agitating the oil operators was brought up when the request of the Superior Oil company for a permit to construct a pipe line into the ocean to carry waste water away from producing oil wells was tabled. City Engineer Rosson reported the meeting in this city on Wednesday of last week between the city council and representatives of 19 oil companies at which time an organization of the oil companies was formed to consider plans for constructing one waste water disposal plant for the entire field.

City Engineer Rosson recommended the abatement of a number of idle oil derricks in the field and urged the immediate destruction of three derricks as dangerous and liable to collapse. One is located on the Methodist campground at Eleventh and Magnolia, one is at Fourteenth and Walnut and one is on Ocean avenue between Eleventh and Twelfth streets.

The council ordered the three

Reunion Enjoyed In Anaheim Home

ANAHEIM, Dec. 3.—A reunion of old friends was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Y. Torres recently. Old time Spanish dishes were served with a big turkey.

Those who were present were Mr. and Mrs. Alex Ruiz, of Placentia; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Trujillo, of Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Canisla, Mr. and Mrs. Enlar Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Rios and son, Junior, of Los Angeles; Paul Lebo, John and Albert Lebo, of Los Angeles, and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Y. Torres.

derricks removed and gave first reading to an ordinance designed to give the council authority to remove all idle derricks. This ordinance was tabled a year or more ago after it met strong opposition from landowners. It provides for the city to recover the costs of working the derricks by an assessment against the property. Mayor Bowen explained that before the ordinance was passed it was the plan to correct this objectionable feature, after J. H. Macklin, oil operator, had been given the floor and had protested against the passage of the ordinance.

The request of the county health board for the creation of a mosquito abatement district was tabled and the city clerk was instructed to inform the health board and the county commissioners that the city of Huntington Beach felt the health board should abate the mosquito nuisance out of funds provided by the county.

A petition against the objectionable odors arising from oil rectifying plants and signed by some 20 citizens residing near the plant was held over to the next meeting and the city clerk was instructed that in case he received no reply to his communication to the county supervisors after their meeting in Santa Ana this week to mail the petition. The plants creating the nuisance are most of them just outside the city limits.

The city treasurer's report showed $355,748.03 in the city treasury of which $259,470.12 is in the general fund and $17,751.57 in the music and promotion fund.

At the request of the fire chief, J. K. Sargent, the city clerk, C. R. Furr, was instructed to advertise for bids on 800 feet of double jacketed rubber lined fire hose for use of the fire department.

The city judge, C. F. Patton, reported 24 cases heard during the month of November and $870 collected in fines, of which $147 was traffic fines. The police report showed 47 calls answered. There were 22 traffic arrests, nine drunks and one illegal possession. The city building inspector reported 24 building permits issued for the total fee of $89. Permits issued for all purposes amounted to $176.

Buildings erected or actual value of construction work undertaken for the month was $8900.

OUTLINE NEEDS OF FULLERTON WATER SYSTEM

FULLERTON, Dec. 3.—Needs for improvement in the city water system of Fullerton were brought out at a meeting of the citizens' water committee and the various sub-committees last night in the city council chamber. The citizens' committee, which was appointed by the city council for the purpose of bringing before the people the necessity of adoption of the project advised by city engineer and city water superintendent or some other plan whereby the water system will be improved, heard reports from the committees which were asked to prepare reports.

The operation of the present water system and its defects were explained by Grover L. Walters, who is in charge of the operation of the pumping plant. Walters stated that at the present time there are four wells in the city plant and that three of the wells are at a depth of approximately 120 feet beneath the surface of the water while the fourth is approximately 146 feet beneath the surface of the water. Walters pointed out that at the present time not all of the wells are used, but that in the summer they are all in operation a large part of the time. He also declared that if one of the booster pumps used in the wells should break down at a hot season of the year, there would be no way to supply the demand for water.

Growth of building in Fullerton was shown by Walter Humphreys, chairman of the engineering committee, and also the growth of the water system. He stated that in 1913 when the population of the city was 4000, the water system was bought by the city from a private concern and that the city spent $92,000 on the system at that time. In 1921, with a population of 5000 the city had used up the system and spent $285,000 to construct the present system with the 5,000,000-gallon reservoir. At that time it was thought that the system would provide for the city until 1939 when it was estimated that the population would amount to approximately 10,000. However, at the present time, the population of the city amounts to 12,939.

H. B. CALLS JUNIOR COLLEGE MEETING

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 3.—A mass meeting will be held in the Huntington Beach high school tonight to decide what course the chamber of commerce and citizens desire to take in regard to Huntington Beach going into the proposed new junior college district. The meeting was called by the chamber of commerce. It is open to the public.

The junior college county committee has two members from this city, Joseph Vavra, school trustee, and M. G. Jones, high school superintendent. These two committees will offer their report on the advisability of this city becoming a part of the junior college district.

Opponents of the plan here were in evidence at a recent meeting of the chamber of commerce at which this matter was brought up.

NO MAN'S LAND PLANNED IN COUNTY FOR PICTURE; NEWPORT TO SUPPLY WATER

NEWPORT BEACH, Dec. 3.—A section of the Irvine ranch near this city will be transformed into a make-believe war front within the next few weeks, when a sound picture of "All Quiet on the Western Front," the Pulitzer prize novel, will be produced by Universal Pictures corporation.

About 200,000 gallons of water per day will be used to change the peaceful countryside into a muddy no man's land during the three or four weeks required to produce the part of the film laid on the western front during the World war.

The city council of Newport Beach last night agreed to enter into a contract to supply the water, after City Engineer R. L. Patterson, who is also city water superintendent, had recommended it. The water will be taken from the city's reservoir north of Corona del Mar.

Patterson said that the city had a plentiful supply of water at this time of the year, when the consumption is only about half as much as in summer, or less.

The company asked for a contract to supply water for six weeks, but the peak of the supply will be for only four weeks. The water alone will cost about $40 a day. A large number of actors and actresses will take part in the production.

GREAT POWER OF JESUS TOLD BY REV. EDGAR

The Rev. Samuel Edgar, pastor of the Reformed Presbyterian church, spoke Sunday from the text: "One Thing Thou Lackest." Mark 10:21. He said in part:

"This is part of Christ's answer to the greatest question in a man's life. It came out of that wonderful interview between the Master and the rich young ruler. Christ's diagnosis of the case was unerring. Two things were wrong in the young man's life. He had a low estimate of the law of God, and he had a high estimate of the value of this world's goods. For there was hidden in that love of riches a luxurious self-love and a lack of sympathy with the wants of men that made it endanger the very roots of character. He was accustomed to an easy life, he was being made a prisoner by the fetters of ease. If he went on a little longer he would be a life prisoner. For this reason we have Christ's daring command, 'Sell whatsoever thou hast and give to the poor.'"

"Here Jesus places his finger upon that which was keeping the young man from the real things of God, keeping him from the richest things of his own life, and also from the richest things in his service for others."

"Christ was not here condemning riches, for He did not ask for all of His followers to surrender them. He was asking the young man for the surrender of that which was dearer to him than his soul. As S. D. Gordon says, 'We must have the coinage of earth exchanged into the coinage of the realm of the kingdom of God.'"

"To all of us today, y there comes the hour of deciding as to what is to be the greatest and most important thing in life, God or Mammon. Shall we follow Jesus, or be prisoners to the things of this world? It requires the tidal power of Jesus, which is the Holy Spirit, to free men from their earthly entanglements and lift them to the divine herosim."

Law Students Of Fullerton Class Visit Court Here

Some 40 members of the law class of the Fullerton union high school, under the supervision of Charles Ruby, attorney, who is instructor in the course, were interested spectators in superior court yesterday getting first hand information on a criminal action.

The center of their attention was the murder case before Judge Homer G. Ames in which Francisco Vega is charged with causing the death last summer of Fred C. Allen. The charge grew out of Allen's death from gas gangrene in a hospital two days after he was struck by a car driven by Vega.

Examination of prospective jurors consumed the time during the morning session of the court, Vega is represented by A. P. Nelson, Kenneth Burns and Raymond Ray.

Court Notes

Arley E. Coulter was awarded an interlocutory decree of divorce from Estelle V. Coulter yesterday by Judge G. K. Scovel. The action was based on a charge of cruel and inhuman treatment, to which the defendant offered no defense. A property settlement agreement entered into by the parties to the action awarded Mrs. Coulter alimony in the amount of $25 per month as long as she remains unmarried.

A petition for permission to secure a marriage for a 16-year old girl has been granted by Judge H. G. Ames. The petition was filed by Jesus and Clara Ramirez, parents of the girl, Mary, and sought the necessary court approval for a license to marry Arthur Galaz, 17. This is the second case in the Orange county courts where permission has been allowed a girl under 16 to marry.

Two actions were filed by the Newport Beach Lumber company yesterday for foreclosure of mechanic's liens. The defendants named were John O. King, et al, and Herman Walker, et al. The liens are directed against buildings erected in Newport Beach and are the outgrowth of small unpaid balances alleged to be due.

URGES MEMORIAL OF THE SAVIOUR BE KEPT FRESH

In the First United Brethren church, Sunday, the Rev. R. W. Harlow, pastor, spoke on the subject, "The Saviour's Memorial." He said:

"During the Civil war many men who were unable to go in person to take their place in the fighting line procured substitutes who went to fight in their stead. A certain wealthy business man in one of the northern states, finding himself unable to go at that time, hired at a great cost, a man to take his place in the war."

"During a certain engagement the substitute was killed in action. The business man at once made suitable provisions for the man's family, but felt that even this did not fully discharge his debt. He therefore waited until the war was over and then hastened south to seek out the grave of his substitute. Having found it he had an elaborate monument erected over the grave, bearing the man's name and date of his death, and with the simple epitaph, 'He Died For Me.' He also made all the necessary arrangements in order that the grave of his substitute might be kept fresh and green."

"All who visited that cemetery afterward were attracted by the sight of that well-kept grave and tears sprang unbidden to many eyes as they read the silent, unending gratitude in that simple epitaph, 'He Died For Me.'"

"Today we should remember, with the same undying gratitude, One who died for us; and see to it that our part is faithfully performed towards keeping His memorial fresh and green in our own lives. You have noticed how that great events, great victories, great men and even great achievements by men, are usually commemorated by memorials of various kinds."

"I want to call your attention to the greatest event in the history of the world—the redemption of humanity; to the greatest victory the world has ever witnessed—the Saviour's victory over sin and Satan in the gigantic struggle which began in Gethsemane's garden and finished on Calvary's cross, and was perfectly completed on the Resurrection morn; that marvelous victory in which all the forces of hell were met and vanquished, the grave itself was met and conquered, by the God man, Jesus Christ, the Son of God. To which a living memorial has been established, the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper."

Fern A. Britton asks that the bonds of matrimony now existing with Roy P. Britton be dissolved. She also asks custody of their four-year-old son, half of their community property and an allowance of $40 per month for the support of the child. The complaint recites that on several occasions the defendant has struck the plaintiff and called her indecent names without provocation.

Ray L. Riley, state controller, has petitioned the superior court for an order to determine the inheritance tax due the state from the estate of Peter Ailland, who died last October. Elissa Homann, who is the beneficiary of a trust set up in the First National bank of Anaheim, by Ailland, and the bank as trustee, are named as defendants in the action.

Charged with vagrancy, Ray Smith, 19, and William Dehards, 28, were arrested on railroad property here last night by Officer James Murray.

E. B. Smith, of 106 South Birch street, reported to the police that a number of tools were stolen from his garage last night.

Charging desertion, Bertha Zaepfel has sued Louis Zaepfel for divorce. The complaint recites that they were married in Santa Ana November 14, 1926, and two years later separated when the defendant deserted and abandoned his wife.

Three men, charged with vagrancy, were given suspended jail sentences in Judge John F. Talbot's court yesterday and the fourth was sentenced to serve 10 days in the county jail. He was John Singleton, arrested over the week end. The others were Joe Byrne, Everett Fuller and James Powers.

Charged with violation of the city's parking laws, W. L. Dreitzler, Bill Fernandez and C. Lacy were fined $2 each in police court yesterday.

FLYING GAINING FAVOR IN COUNTY

Believing that winter flying this year is going to be more popular than ever before, plans have been made at the Eddie Martin airplane field here for the biggest business in the history of the airport, Martin said yesterday.

Martin now has five planes at the disposal of the public, two of which he has purchased within the last few days. He is negotiating for a sixth plane today.

"More and more persons are riding to the places they want to go, and even duck hunters are going to their favorite hunting grounds via planes this year, Martin said. 'For that reason, we have been rushed here for enough planes, but with five in shape today we believe we're going to do the biggest winter business we have ever done.'"

A kidney discovery of great importance
Natural aid found in Mexico
(Also for high blood pressure and indigestion)

EVERYONE who hears of this discovery is amazed. It comes from Mexico. It is the pure fresh sap of the famous maguey plant—a great health food, a valuable tonic in kidney deficiencies, high blood pressure, indigestion and glycosuria. This marvelous discovery is a natural vegetable milk called "agumiel" in its native country. There it has been used for centuries, but now it has been concentrated and imported here with the name shortened to Agmel.

Agmel is particularly successful as an aid in the "degenerative" diseases and faulty conditions in the genito-urinary system. All men and women entering middle age should investigate Agmel. Everyone of every age should learn at once about this wonderful natural aid to health—particularly those who are being warned of danger by frequent aching at night, backache, high blood pressure and other symptoms. Imported by The Agmel Corporation, New York and Mexico, D. F.

"Digestion Now Perfect"
Food did not digest and caused great distress. I was run down and constipated from improper diet and hard work. After taking Agmel I find that my digestion is perfect. I sleep well and feel normal in every way."

UNITED PRESS ALL-AMERICAN PICKS TAPPAAN

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—The United Press' All-America football team of 1929, presented today, is truly representative of all that its name implies.

Not only has every section of the country been closely canvassed and afforded opportunity for representation, but the players finally selected this year have had to meet new and stricter requirements.

More than 200 football coaches, officials and critics from coast to coast joined in the consensus of the United Press eleven, and in each case their recommendations were based upon a player's worth from the beginning to the end of his team's schedule.

This system of selection, obviously the fairest, and productive of one of the greatest All-America teams, meant that certain of the year's remarkable players, such as All Marsters of Dartmouth and Albie Booth of Yale, could not be included. Great as certain quarters, neither was able to give his best for his team when it was most needed, and each, therefore, fell short of the requirements of the United Press eleven.

The United Press All-America team for 1929:

Left Guard—Montgomery, Pittsburgh.
Center—Tieknor, Harvard.
Right Guard—Cannon, Notre Dame.
Right Tackle—Nagurski, Minnesota.
Right End—Donchess, Pittsburgh.
Quarterback—Carideo, Notre Dame.
Left Halfback—Hufford, Washington.
Right Halfback—McEver, Tennessee.
Fullback—Welch, Purdue.

The second team follows: Fessler, Ohio State, and Schoonover, Arkansas, ends; Douds, W. and J., and Sleight, Tulane, tackles; Singleton, Alabama, and Schwarz, California, guards; Heinicke, Stanford, center; Cagle, Army, Stennett, St. Mary's, Glasgow, Iowa, and Parkinson, Pittsburgh, backs.

SCRIBES READY TO QUIZ GENE ABOUT BOXING

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Having at last forgiven boxing for everything it has done for him, the James J. Tunney who spent the past year donating culture to European capitals is coming home today. He has done all he can for Europe.

From now on, it is strictly on its own and must work out its salvation strictly on its merits. Tunney, it seems, has decided to devote himself to the needs of America, which will be quite a break for boxing hereabouts.

A lot of those low fellows of the newspaper business will be there when the bout docks but I understand Tunney is a changed man and nobody will be molested, provided he remembers his place.

There used to be an unfortunate difference of opinion about this, due to Tunney's mistaken impression that the place in question was with the scullery help. However, it seems that the inherent bigness of the man has asserted itself at last and that he now views reporters with a great and forgiving compassion.

At that, he may be interested to know that this demand for privacy seems to be on the verge of fulfillment. Tunney somehow has lost contact with the news pages during recent months and even the magnified importance of his approach has failed to stimulate more than a casual mention of the fact in the sport sections. He also may be interested in the rumor that he no longer is of the social register. I mention this as a rumor because I know nothing of the organ in question, being a person whose special needs are answered by the telephone directory.

Anyhow, Tunney will find many changes have been achieved since last he was with us and that not all of them are for the better.

Rickard is gone and the edifice that stands as his monument now promotes five-dollar shows for a profit in hair-cut money.

He will find that it no longer is necessary to accost John Dempsey with query, "Will you fight?" John, as everyone knows, will not fight for the best reason in the world. He can't.

Tunney will find all divisions stagnant, with only Sharkey and Schmeling having "big money" possibilities in the same ring and that the funny thing about this is that you can't even get them in the same country.

He will find things so negative, in fact, that they will ask him the question that everybody seems able to answer himself.

They will ask him whether he will fight again in his mind that he won't. As to that, I wouldn't care to say that they are wrong; merely that they are giving themselves too much chance to be wrong. You always do that when you attempt to guarantee human behavior.

The Register believes this first team, playing a season together under a coach like Bill Cook of Santa Ana, could hold its own with any four-year college in Southern California outside of the University of Southern California Trojans.

Ed Covington Daddy Of 'Quarterback'

Ed Covington, former Santa Ana high school football coach, was the father today of a baby "with the voice of a quarterback." The son, thus described by Covington himself, was born November 28, at Calexico.

Covington is coaching the Calexico high school eleven which won the Imperial Valley championship last Saturday by defeating El Centro.

Undefeated and unscathed on this season, Calexico will meet Coronado high school Saturday in its first Southern California playoff game.

Within the past 24 hours ugly rumors have been whispered into my unsuspecting ears.

(1) I have heard that tonight's big bout at the Orange County Athletic club between Indian Jimmie Rivers and the celebrated Ohio welterweight, Freddie Fitzgerald, is "in the bag."

(2) I have heard that Rivers is to win and then be rematched "uptown" with the man who whipped "Black Jack" Thompson.

(3) I have heard that Rivers will not show at all, that he will be "sick" again. And I have heard that Fitzgerald, realizing the chance he will be taking with his precious record, will take a run-out powder.

Doesn't Believe It

Frankly, I don't believe there is anyone more skeptical of boxing than I am. But if it means anything to anybody I don't believe a single, solitary word of the nasty insinuations recited in the paragraphs above.

In the first place I am convinced of the honesty of the principals.

Furthermore, I believe their business sagacity is insurance against any "funny business."

Fitzgerald, a really high class fighting man if we can go on records, certainly would be a fool to enter into an arrangement, Rivers, a youngster just coming into his own, would be worse to risk a scandal at this stage of his game.

No Big Money At Stake

As a matter of fact there is rarely a chance for a frameup unless big money is at stake, and there is no big money at stake tonight. I doubt if a hundred dollars will be wagered in Orange county over the outcome of the contest.

It may seem peculiar that a Man of Fitzgerald's reputation is fighting at a comparatively small club. There is a reason for that, too.

Fitz, marking time for a big shot either in San Francisco with Young Corbett or at the Olympic in Los Angeles, recently broke with his manager.

Figures Rivers Easy

While the trouble cleared away he was willing to make some pin money. The possibility that he might lose to a fighter from the

FITZGERALD IS FAVORITE OVER JIMMIE RIVERS

Two young welterweight boxers, one already near the top in his profession and the other eager to climb there, meet here tonight in the most important bout ever promoted at the Orange County Athletic club.

The artist is Freddie Fitzgerald, Youngstown, O., contender for Jackie Fields' purple robes, and the ambitious pupil is Jimmie Rivers, a quietly confident Indian from Fullerton, Calif.

Scheduled to go a distance of 10 rounds, they headline a pretentious boxing card which brings back to action two of the Santa Ana club's biggest drawing cards, Zenaydo Chavez and "Baby Face" Tony Moreno. Chavez fights the semi-windup and Moreno the special event, both six-round attractions.

Fitz Has Great Record

Fitzgerald is a topheavy favorite to win despite Rivers' well known and seeming unfailing ability to whip the "hard ones." Fitz has never lost a bout on the Pacific coast and he has faced some of the best boys in the game including "Black Jack" Thompson, the colored San Francisco man who kayaked Joe Dundee when Dundee was champion of the world. Fitzgerald outpointed Thompson in a 10-round thriller at Oakland early last month.

Two weeks ago the Ohio battler stopped Joe Schlocker in a main event at the Hollywood American Legion stadium.

Rivers will come in primed for the best performance of his career. He completed his training yesterday with a little roadwork and was in seclusion today. His manager, Jack Walker, said the Indian was ready in every respect.

Rivers Thinks He Can Win

"You can say for us," Walker stated, "that Jimmie is not starting against Fitzgerald just for the purpose of sticking the distance. Rivers knows what a victory will mean. He is going in there tonight and carry the fight to the fella. He not only expects to stick but he expects to win."

There was a possibility today that Chavez, starting for the first time in three months, will meet Drewry Willis in the semi instead of Chris Martinez. If Willis is the substitute it will be a lucky break for the ring "worms" because he is every inch a fighter. He recently gave Joe Reese a whale of a fight here.

Moreno is scheduled to oppose Tommy McGough, a highly regarded New York Irish bantam. If records mean anything, McGough figures to win.

The first two bouts are Luis Echeveste vs. "Chalky" Wright, and "Tex" Stennett vs. Johnny Nandez.

SAINTS HOLD FIRST BASKETBALL DRILL

Basketball practice at Santa Ana high school officially started last night when 22 aspirants for the call of Coach Clyde Patton in Andrews gymnasium and engaged in a brisk workout.

Although the material at hand is not discouraging by any means, the schedule this year is constructed in such a manner as to require nearly two complete teams of first class players. The games usually come twice a week and each school will necessarily have to depend on reserves to a great extent. Prospects are fine for one good squad but whether five more players of the same caliber can be recruited is another matter.

Army Squad Will Stay In Training

WEST POINT, N. Y., Dec. 3.—Army's football squad will not break training prior to the Stanford game at Palo Alto, Calif., Dec. 28, but there will be little work for the players this week.

BEAT BUTLER

It was the desire for vengeance against Butler of Indianapolis, then chesny ruler of western football, that led to the invitation a Purdue delegation extended to Donnelly and Ames to come and coach the Boilermakers. In 1891, the first year Donnelly coached the line and Ames taught the backfield, Purdue beat Butler 58 to 0.

Purdue's football hopes were fanned into a blaze in 1913 when the late Andy Smith, who had

COUNTRY CLUB WOMEN SCORE GOLF VICTORY

Women golfers of the Santa Ana Country club improved their position materially in the Southern California Interclub league yesterday by defeating the Redlands Country club representatives, 9 1/2 points to 2 1/2, on the Santa Ana course.

Results follow:

Mrs. Hugh Shields and Mrs. L. H. Robinson, Santa Ana, won from Mrs. Dow and Mrs. Blodgett, Redlands, 3 and 0.

Mrs. C. V. Doty and Mrs. R. W. Townsend, Santa Ana, defeated Mrs. Powers and Mrs. Smith, Redlands, 3 and 0.

Miss Margaret Way and Mrs. Osmond Pixley, Santa Ana, beat Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Pierce, Redlands, 2 1/2 to 1/2.

Mrs. Leftertz and Mrs. Sewell, Redlands, won from Mrs. J. L. Ainsworth and Mrs. J. K. McDonald, Santa Ana, 2 to 1.

SANTA BARBARA TO PLAY AT FULLERTON

The Santa Barbara high school football team will play the Fullerton Indians Saturday at Fullerton in a semi-final game for the Southern California high school championship. The Ventura County league champions last week defeated San Bernardino, 34 to 0. Fullerton is expected to give the visitors a much harder battle.

BEAT SANTA MATEO TEAM

The Santa Mateo game was for the championship of the Northern conference and Sacramento won, 33 to 20. Four of their scores were tallied in the second quarter when power plays and long passes caught Santa Mateo napping. Then in the third stanza, Santa Mateo came back and using only one pass, pushed over three scores and gave the Senators a scare but in the closing minute of play, Brown threw Donadio two long passes and Sacramento scored again, putting the game on ice.

Of the five touchdowns for Sacramento.

BIG TEN MAY RESTORE IOWA TO CONFERENCE

By BERT DEMBY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—Now under suspension for alleged proselyting of athletes, the University of Iowa probably will know Saturday just what its future position in the Western conference will be.

This week and the faculty athletic committee of the Big Ten will meet and since it was the faculty athletic committee which suspended Iowa last year in all probability there will be a verdict as to whether the Hawkeyes are to be put out of the Big Ten altogether or are to be allowed readmittance.

Told to "Clean House"
When the suspension order was put into effect Iowa was told to get its "house into order." That order meant that if there were any subsidized athletes at the Hawkeye institution the so-called subsidization was to be remedied.

The reports are that Iowa now is ready to come into the faculty athletic committee meeting with full proof that there is nothing wrong in the way of proselyting of athletes at the Hawkeye institution.

There has been no indication so far as to what the committee will do regarding Iowa. Some reports have it that the Hawkeyes are to be barred permanently, but in all likelihood it seems reasonable to believe that Iowa will be restored to "good standing."

Have Tentative Schedule
What will happen if Iowa is dropped from the conference entirely is conjecturable. The Hawkeyes reportedly have kept this thought in mind and have taken care of themselves by arranging tentative schedules for football games next fall with leading schools of the country.

Should Iowa go out of the conference it will take its drawing power elsewhere and there is no doubt about the fact that the Hawkeyes are one of the biggest drawing powers in the middle west. Almost always producing a good football team they have drawn the crowds and being out of the conference certainly will not affect their financial remuneration for football games played.

Under the present ruling, the Iowa suspension becomes effective January 1, and in event no action is taken regarding the Hawkeyes between now and then the Big Ten will be a Big Nine on that date.

If Iowa is thrown out there probably won't be any restrictions preventing Big Ten teams from scheduling games with the Hawkeyes, but if the suspension order is renewed no conference school can schedule games with the Iowa City team.

On the face of things it would seem that Iowa will be reinstated. There seems no reason to believe that anyone wants to break up the Big Ten and if the Hawkeyes come in with proof that the "house is in order" it won't be at all surprising if they are restored to good standing.

coached Pennsylvania, came to teach the game at Lafayette. Elmer Oliphant, who later played for the Army, was on Smith's team. In that year the Bollermakers beat Northwestern and Indiana and tied Wisconsin and Illinois. Then Andy Smith went to California. Jimmy Phelan came to Purdue in 1922.

THE PROMISE OF POWER

The light of greatness for Purdue began to dawn in 1927. It was the game with Harvard that year that seemed to be the turning point. "Cotton" Wilcox, star of the Bollermakers' offense, sat crippled on the sidelines and a husky young man with hair parted in the middle, after the fashion of the old-fashioned bartender, went out to roam the backfield in his place. The husky young fellow was a sophomore named Ralph Welch.

Ralph's name wasn't even on the program for that game, but it was in the score after the battle—in large letters, Ralph ran berserk, amuck and hog-wild over and around the chesty Crimson "sticks," like Rivers, seemed so remote that it probably did not occur to Fitzgerald when he signed with Foust. Undoubtedly Freddie figures the Indian the softest kind of a touch.

I have a hunch Rivers may fool him. I can't pick Rivers to win. You can't laugh off Fitzgerald's record. Either he is the goods or the most overrated fighter on the welterweight bandwagon. But Jimmie has impressed me, especially of late, that he knows how to take care of himself. I don't give him a chance to beat this fellow but I shouldn't be at all surprised if Rivers sticks the limit and gives Fitzgerald a pretty good fight.

Henry T. Foust, promoter of the bout, assures me that Rivers and Fitzgerald will be on hand. That is enough for me, and its disposal of Rumor No. 2.

SOCK FOR THE EXPERTS

Purdue this year gave the experts a health belt on the chin. Writers who stopped off at Lafayette to have words with Phelan came away with stories to the effect that Purdue would have a good team if it had a few more reserves. The eleven would go along and win a couple of games, but it would be just too bad for the Bollermakers if any of the footballers should get hurt. It did happen, however, that a pretty important person—Ebb Caraway—got hurt, but that didn't stop the Riveters from Tippecanoe county from crashing through.

HEZMAHALCH IS ELECTED PILOT AT FULLERTON

FULLERTON, Dec. 3.—Charles Hezmalach, star fullback of the Fullerton junior college football team, today was captain-elect of the squad for the 1930 season following his election last night by members of the team.

Hezmalach, brother of Bob Hezmalach, captain of the 1927 Fullerton high school team which won the Southern California championship and now a member of the Jaycee team, was one of the outstanding defensive players in the conference. In the championship game with Santa Ana, Hezmalach was one of the outstanding players on the field, and until he was removed from the game late in the fourth period, the Santa Ana backs made little yardage through the center of the line.

Although Coach Art Nunn of the Yellowjackets loses seven regulars by graduation this year, he will have a strong squad returning to form a new team. Besides Captain-elect Hezmalach some of the outstanding returning lettermen are Bob Hezmalach, tackle; Chesley, center; Jenkins and Hatfield, guards; Williams and Peterson, ends; Schnabel, quarterback; Kiser, Woods, Poltz and Anderson, halfbacks, and Hezmalach and Macklin, fullbacks.

HARRY COOPER RULED OUT OF PRO GOLF PLAY

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3.—With Harry Cooper ruled out because of failure to play in sectional qualifying tournaments and Tommy Armour forced by illness to retire, match play in the National Professional Golf association championship began at the Hillcrest Country club here today.

President Alec Pirie of the P. G. A. at first also declared Charles Guest of Los Angeles ineligible for the same reason that barred Cooper, but was reported later to have rescinded his order after a telephone protest by other players here.

With Cooper and Armour out of the picture, a continuation of the qualifying play-off between Walter Hagen, Bill Mehlhorn and Henry Cuic will be unnecessary, it was said. At the close of yesterday's play, these three were tied for thirty-second place at 149, one stroke under the qualifying 148. Al Houghton and Walter Crowder were eliminated.

Johnny Farrell and John Golden, members of the Ryder cup team, will meet in the first round of today's match play. Horton Smith of Joplin, Mo., takes on Craig Wood, Hawaiian Open winner and Fred Morrison, Los Angeles, medalist, meets Joe Kirkwood, Leo Diegel, the 1928 champion, hooks up with P. O. Hart, of Wheeling, W. Va.

Morrison led the field in the 36 hole qualifying round yesterday by finishing six strokes under par with a score of 136. He shot a par 71 in the morning and a sizzling 65 in the afternoon 13 holes.

Diegel, defending champion, beat par 142 and came in second with 140. Johnny Golden of Paterson, N. J., Tony Manero, New York, and Gene Sarazen of Fresh Meadows, N. Y., tied for third place with 141.

ramento, Donadio made two on a certain freak play. Happe, a stellar guard, pulled out of the line after the ball was snapped, started around end and tossed a lateral to Donadio who streaked down the sidelines over the goal. Other tricky stunts were sprinkled throughout the game. The North-erners will have to be watched closely.

The Northern forward wall is also good. They allowed 15 first downs on running plays through the line while their own backs got 16, mostly over the line with passes. Captain Oliver Pope, husky tackle, Happe, burly guard, Rouke, center, Donadio, quarter, and Brett, halfback, all appeared on the all-conference team for the northern part of the state.

Team Is Undefeated

The Congressmen are undefeated and hold victories over such schools as the San Jose Teachers' college, College of the Pacific, Modesto and San Mateo junior college and the Oregon Normal college. It is a significant fact that 193 points have been scored by Sacramento.

The Don squad will leave Los Angeles by train Friday evening at 6:10 o'clock. The return trip will start at 5:30 Saturday afternoon. Agitation for a special train is rife on the local campus and around town and the Southern Pacific has offered the school a special rate of $15 for the entire trip if 100 persons agree to go.

Coach Cook is taking his entire squad on the trip, feeling that every man on the squad, whether or not a regular, has earned the faint. Including managers, about 30 men will comprise the grid assemblage on a separate coach. The trip will be made over the Southern Pacific route direct to Sacramento.

Coach Cook only gave his men a light workout yesterday but will get down to serious work today. Ed Adams and Al Kluthe, stellar linemen, were not in suit with injuries, but were expected to be in shape for the game Saturday. Otherwise, the whole team is in perfect shape for the skirmish.

Resume Of President's Address

"I am convinced that through these measures we have re-established confidence," he said. "Wages should remain stable. A very large degree of industrial unemployment and suffering which would otherwise have occurred has been prevented. Agricultural prices have reflected the returning confidence."

Among the president's recommendations for legislative or executive action are:

1. An immediate tax reduction of one per cent on both individual and corporate incomes for the calendar year 1929.
2. Renewed efforts to realize a railroad consolidation program.
3. Studies looking to reduction of a "continuously mounting military outlay."
4. Ratification of the World Court protocol under the terms of the Root agreement.
5. Immediate increase in the inland waterways appropriations from $50,000,000 to $55,000,000 annually.
6. General revision of air mail rates "upon a more systematic and permanent footing."
7. Expansion of the United States merchant marine through award of subsidies on mail contracts on 14 new routes calling for 460,000 tons of new ships at a cost of $250,000,000.
8. Revision of the national banking laws to care for vastly altered conditions growing out of the expansion of chain banking.
9. Reorganization of the Federal Radio commission as a permanent agency of the government.
10. A beginning of reorganization of the government departments, including concentration of the prohibition enforcement machinery in the Department of Justice.

Coupled with his specific recommendations for investigating the federal prohibition, the president again pointed to the nation's need for better law enforcement generally.

"I have been gratified at the awakening sense of this responsibility in our citizens during the past few months," the chief executive declared, "and gratified that many instances have occurred which refute the cynicism which has asserted that our system could not convict those who had defied the law and possessed the means to resist its execution. These things reveal a moral awakening both in the people and in officials which lies at the very foundation of the rule of law."

"We can no longer gloss over the unpatriotic reality which should be made vital in the consciousness of every citizen, that he who condones or traffics with crime, who is indifferent to it and to the punishment of the criminal, or to the lax performance of official duty, is himself the most effective agency for the breakdown of society."

Prohibition received more space in the message than any other topic.

"We are not only at peace with all the world, but the foundations for future peace are being substantially strengthened," the president declared in summarizing our international relations. The Kellogg-Briand pact has raised a "new moral standard" under which "a new world outlook" has been inaugurated.

Emphasizing that the Senate reservations of 1926 had been realized through the Hirst-Root agreement, the president declared he would submit the World Court protocol with a special message "at some time when it is convenient to deal with it."

"Our adherence to the international court is, as now constituted, not the slightest step toward entry into the League of Nations," he said.

Appointment of a special commission to study conditions in Haiti is suggested as a step toward "some more definite policy than at present." In China and Nicaragua, the only other foreign countries in which United States Marines are on duty, the president hopes to reduce the forces as rapidly as possible. "In a large sense," he declared in listing the foreign detachments, "we do not wish to be represented abroad in such manner."

To further improve relations with South America the administration program looks to strengthening of our diplomatic representation in that region. "It is my hope to secure men long experienced in the diplomatic service, who speak the languages of the people to whom they are accredited." Several nominations of this caliber soon will be sent to the Senate.

Again pointing out that the United States budget for purely military purposes "is in excess of those of the most highly militarized nations of the world," the message recommended consideration by congress of a program to curb the "continuously mounting" outlay.

"To preserve internal order and freedom from encroachment is the first purpose of government," the chief executive declared. "Our army and navy as at present constituted are ample for this purpose."

Our combined military expenditures for 1914 were $267,000,000, against $30,000,000 anticipated for the current fiscal year.

A summary of the message on other major problems follows:

Government Finance

The finances of the government are in sound condition. The public debt on June 30 of this year stood at $16,921,000,000 compared to the maximum in August, 1919, of $26,596,000,000. In the budget to be submitted the total appropriations recommended for the fiscal year 1931 are $3,380,445,231, as compared to $3,974,141,651 for the present fiscal year. We cannot fail to recognize the obligations of the government in support of the public welfare but we must incidentally bear in mind the burden of taxes and strive to find relief through some tax reduction. Every dollar so returned fertilizes the soil of prosperity.

"I recommend that the normal income tax rates applicable to the incomes of individuals for the calendar year 1929 be reduced from 5, 8, and 1 1/2 per cent, to 4, 2, and 1-2 per cent, and that the tax on the income of corporations for the calendar year 1929 be reduced from 12 to 11 per cent. It is estimated that this will result in a reduction of $160,000,000 in income taxes to be collected during the calendar year 1929."

Foreign Debts

"The only indebtedness of foreign governments to the United States now unsettled is that of Russia and Armenia. The total amount of indebtedness of the various countries to the United States now funded is $11,579,455,885. The payments of the various governments to us on account of principal and interest for 1929 are estimated at $239,000,000, for 1930 at about $236,000,000, for 1931 at about $246,000,000. The measure of American compromise in these settlements may be appreciated from the fact that our taxpayers are called upon to find annually about $475,000,000 in interest and in addition to redeem the principal of sums borrowed by the United States government for these purposes."

General Economic Situation

The country has enjoyed a large degree of prosperity and sound progress during the past year with a steady improvement in methods of production and distribution and consequent advance in standards of living. The long upward rise of fundamental progress, however, gave rise to over optimism as to profits, which translated itself into a wave of uncontrolled speculation in securities, resulting in the diversion of capital from business to the stock market and the inevitable crash.

The natural consequences have been a reduction in the consumption of luxuries and semi-necessities by those who have met with losses, and a number of persons thrown temporarily out of employment. Prices of agricultural products dealt in upon the great markets have been affected in sympathy with the stock crash.

Fortunately, the Federal Reserve system had taken measures to strengthen the position against the day when speculation would break, which, together with the strong position of the banks has carried the whole credit system through the crisis without impairment.

The capital which has been hitherto absorbed in stock market loans for speculative purposes is now returning to the normal channels of business. There has been no inflation in the prices of commodities; there has been no undue accumulation of goods, and foreign trade has expanded to a magnitude which exerts a steady influence upon activity in industry and employment.

Agriculture

The agricultural situation is improving. The gross farm income as estimated by the department of agriculture for the crop season of 1928-29 was $12,100,000,000; for 1927-28 it was $12,300,000,000; for 1928-29 it was $12,500,000,000; and estimated on the basis of prices since the last harvest the value of the 1929-30 crop would be over $12,650,000. The slight decline in general commodity prices during the past few years naturally assists the farmers' buying power. The number of farmer bankruptcies is very material. The decline in land values now seems to be arrested and rate of movement has been reduced. Responsible farm leaders have declared that a large measure of confidence is returning to agriculture and that a feeling of optimism pervades that industry.

Tariff

The tariff section of the message was almost entirely a transcript of the recommendations submitted to congress in the special session of congress on April 15, in which the president advocated a revision limited to those industrial commodities affected by changed economic conditions abroad since the enactment of the Fordney-McCumber bill.

"No condition has arisen, in my view, to change these principles stated at the opening of the special session. I am firmly of the opinion that their application to the pending revision will give the country the kind of a tariff law it both needs and wants." Mr. Hoover said.

The flexible provisions of the existing law, modified by the Senate in the special session, should be restored to return the rate revision power to the president.

Railways

As a whole, the railroads never were in such good physical and financial condition, and the country has never been so well served by them. The greatest volume of freight traffic ever tendered is being carried at a speed never before attained and with satisfaction to the shippers. Efficiencies and new methods have resulted in reduction in the cost of providing freight transportation, and freight rates show a continuous descending line from the level enforced by the world war.

"We have, however, not yet assured for the future that adequate system of transportation through consolidation which was the objective of the congress in the transportation act. Legislation to simplify and expedite consolidation methods and better to protect public interest should be enacted."

Electrical Power Regulation

The President urged reorganization of the federal power commission, to relieve the three cabinet officers who now comprise the body of the extra duties involved, and the establishment of a permanent expert commission.

"It is also desirable," he said, "that the authority of the commission should be extended to certain phases of power regulation."

"I do not favor the operation by the government of either power or manufacturing business except as an unavoidable by-product of some other major public purpose."

Conservation

"Conservation of our oil and gas resources against future need is a national necessity."

Departmental Reorganization

This subject has been under consideration for over 20 years. It was promised by both political parties in the recent campaign. With this background of all previous experience I can see no hope for the development of a sound reorganization of the government unless congress be willing to delegate its authority over the problem (subject to defined principles) to the executive, who should act upon approval of a joint committee of congress or with the reservation of power of revision by congress within some limited period adequate for its consideration.

Prohibition

The first duty of the president under his oath of office is to secure the enforcement of the laws. "First, there should be an immediate concentration of responsibility and strengthening of enforcement agencies of the federal government by transfer to the department of Justice of the federal functions of detection and to the prohibition bureau in the treasury. Second, provision should be made for relief of congestion in the federal courts by modifying and simplifying the procedure for dealing with the large volume of petty prosecutions under various federal acts. Third, there should be a codification of the laws relating to prohibition to avoid the necessity which now exists of resorting to more than 25 statutes enacted at various times over 40 years. Technical defects in these statutes that have been disclosed should be cured. I would add to these recommendations the desirability of reorganizing the various services engaged in the prevention of smuggling into one border patrol under the coast guard. Further recommendations upon the subject as a whole will be developed after further examination by the law enforcement commission, but it is not to be expected that any criminal law will ever be fully enforced so long as criminals exist."

"The District of Columbia should be the model of city law enforcement in the nation."

SELECTIONS OF 16TH CENTURY FRIDAY NIGHT

When the English Singers of London appear here Friday night on the concert series program of the Eboli society at the Santa Ana high school auditorium, their program will be made up of musical selections from the 16th century, which many believe to be the golden age of English music.

The program will consist of Madrigals, Canzonets, Ballets and Motets, and since these words may be unfamiliar to some who will find great pleasure in the work of this unique ensemble, which last season alone sold out six concerts in New York City, definitions have been supplied by Cuthbert Kelly, spokesman for the group.

Madrigal: A composition for two or more voices unaccompanied to secular verse, often but not always, of a pastoral kind. All the voice parts are of equal interest and mainly designed from the same melodic material. At first the term was applied to verse and later to the music "made on" the verse. The Madrigal form flourished in the 16th century in Flanders, Italy and England.

Canzonet: A little short song or air. This is one of the many terms which the madrigal composers applied to their music. Originally a canzonet was designed on a smaller scale than a madrigal, but in fact the style of composition is the same in both.

Ballet: A composition for voices like the madrigal but with a much more regular and simple rhythm and with a Fa-la-la refrain. In its more primitive form it was a combination of singing and dancing, but it was not danced by the Elizabethan singers. It may be pointed out that it is an error to regard the Fa-la-la refrain as the distinguishing feature of the Madrigal.

Motet: A composition for voices unaccompanied, set, as a rule, to sacred words. Thomas Morley describes a motet as "properly a song made for the church either upon some hymn or Anthem or such like." The term includes "all grave and sober musicks" i. e. compositions of a specially serious and introspective kind.

It was by arrangement with L. E. Behym that the Eboli society was able to procure the English Singers for the first of their International Artist Series programs. The personnel of the group is Flora Mann, Nellie Carson, Lillian Berger, Norman Stone, Norman Nolley and Cuthbert Kelly.

More than 125 chickens were reported stolen from the chicken yards of Gus Leander, who resides on Orangeberry avenue between Spadra and Santa Fe streets, in Anaheim, last night, according to a report filed today at the sheriff's office.

It was the largest single theft of chickens reported here in the past several months.

Defense Presents Testimony In Vega Murder Trial Here

The murder trial of Francisco Vega, charged with responsibility for the death last summer of Fred C. Allen, which is in progress before Judge H. G. Ames, has reached the defense today and testimony is being presented in court to try to upset the case made by the prosecution yesterday.

The case seems to hinge on whether Vega was intoxicated at the time of the accident which resulted in Allen's death from gas gangrene two days later. Defense attorneys estimated today that the case would not go to the jury until tomorrow evening. Vega was driving a car that struck Allen as he was working on a tire Allen at the rear of his parked car, breaking both Allen's legs. Infection set in and death resulted.

Members of the jury hearing the evidence are V. G. Yorba, Mrs. Bertha Bowers, Thomas I. Durham, Harvey Stinchfield, W. P. Quarton, Mrs. Stella Farnsworth, H. E. Warren, Mrs. Clara Martin, PeWitt C. Wilson, Mrs. Rebecca Pope, Ida Spaulding and Winifred Melrose.

COUNCIL ASKS LEGAL RULING FROM SWANNER

Walker queried the council as to whether he would have to pay for bringing his sidewalk into line with the new work or whether the expense would be borne by the city. Members of the council voiced the opinion that if the situation was the result of error on the part of the city, the city should bear the expense, but no formal action was taken on that point. Adjustment of the property line and sidewalk situation was referred to the city engineer.

Of course we could not arrange our mechanisms right among the lions as they sat or lay about. They probably would not have permitted any such liberty for a moment. What we did was to choose a spot some little distance from the lions and trust to luring them close up to our cameras by means of freshly killed bait.

In the early afternoon we set up four flash lamps on poles about six feet above the ground. Three feet in front and below each lamp we placed our cameras. In each flash lamp we put magnesia cartridges Involuntarily our voices became lower and we spoke in short whispers about only important matters. Every nerve in our bodies was on the quiver; our ears felt prickled to catch the slightest sound.

"Gosh, I'm glad you're here!" whispered Osa. And I confessed I felt exactly the same way about her.

Soon enough the sounds commenced. For in Africa the night is full of noise. Bark and snort of kongoni followed the dreadful roar of a hunting lion; then the brief, agonized scream of the victim. We

The program was planned and arranged by Adelaide Cochran, program chairman for the month of December, assisted by Lena Thomas and Lee Patton. Plans for future programs as announced today included the dinner meeting next Monday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the inn, when Sue Erbst, who is president of the Women's Legislative council with headquarters in Los Angeles, is to be the speaker. The noon meeting, December 1,

The report advocates the establishment of a co-operative cost accounting service for the tabulation and compilation and analysis of costs for each farm and states that such a procedure, together with efficient co-operative marketing will afford a combination that will go far toward the farm relief that agriculture has been looking for.

Christmas Party Planned By Chapter AB, P. E. O.

Plans for their annual Christmas party were made yesterday afternoon when members of Chapter AB, P. E. O., gathered at the L. L. Whitson home on Spurgeon street for a delightfully appointed luncheon. Mrs. Whitson and Mrs. Georgia Bradley were charming hostesses.

Low bowls of sweet peas in soft pastel tints centered the small tables where the guests were seated and pretty appointments harmonized with the lovely tones.

Following the business session which was conducted by Mrs. J. E. Bowen, president of the chapter, discussion of the coming party occupied the time. The affair will be held Monday night, December 9, at the C. S. Crookshank home in Lemon Heights. It will be a dinner and husbands of the members will be special guests. Among those assisting Mrs. Crookshank in making arrangements are Mrs. K. H. Herson, Mrs. Grace Jordon of Long Beach and Mrs. H. T. Dunning.

Garden Grove Home Setting for Luncheon

The Garden Grove home of Mrs. Elizabeth Elmore was the setting for a delightful pot luck luncheon yesterday when members of chapter GJ, P. E. O., met there for their semi-monthly meeting.

As members sewed on Christmas gifts for children at the Orange County hospital, Mrs. E. F. Klatt reviewed a late novel, "Mississippi" which is a colorful tale of life along the great river and the feud between the steamboat folk and the shanty people. The climax is reached during the great flood which was a comparatively recent event.

Chapter GJ will hold its annual Christmas party with Mrs. Harry Bowman, December 16, which will be a 12:30 o'clock luncheon.

P. E. O. Chapter Hears Interesting Review

Mrs. L. M. Forcey, Mrs. E. S. Gilbert and Mrs. Elmer Heidt were hostesses yesterday afternoon at a luncheon given for members of Chapter DI, P. E. O., at the attractive Forcey home, 213 South Sycamore street.

After the luncheon Miss Genevieve Humiston was initiated into the chapter.

The remainder of the afternoon was devoted to a book review of "July 14" by Emil Ludwig, which is an account of the World war.

It was announced that the chapter would hold a Christmas party December 16 at the home of Mrs. W. H. Harrison, Bush street.

Community Players Plan Christmas Party

Santa Ana Community Players will not meet Thursday at the barn as is the custom on the first Thursday of every month but will gather there instead December 19 for their annual Christmas party, according to an announcement that was made today by Gladys Simpson Shaffer, barn chairman.

The entire program for the affair has not been planned as yet but it will include a Swedish Christmas play, "The Lighting of the Christmas Tree," by Selma Lageross. The play will be presented in costume, Mrs. Shaffer said.

Original Compositions Offered as Part Of Program

An entertaining program of compositions written by Miss Leonora Tompkins of this city, Miss Mabel Woodworth of Los Angeles and Garden Grove, and Miss Alice Flene of Orange was presented last night at a meeting of the Orange County Music Teachers' association held at Miss Tompkins' home, 711 South Sycamore street.

The compositions were written this summer when the young women were studying under Dr. Howard Hansen, head of the Eastman School of Music at Rochester, N. Y. Dr. Hansen conducted several summer sessions at the University of Southern California during the past summer.

Miss Tompkins opened the program with an interesting talk in which she told of Dr. Hansen's methods of teaching and she illustrated his theories with several selections which she had composed under his direction.

Olimpas Enlow Matthews, well known violinist, gave a beautiful interpretation of "Poem Exotic" which had been written this summer by Miss Woodworth. Another of her compositions, "Japanese Night Song," was sung by Mrs. Walter Ross of Anaheim, soprano.

A song by Miss Flene, "Yesterday's Flowers," was rendered in charming fashion by Eloise Jones of Los Angeles, soprano.

Miss Woodworth and Miss Flene accompanied the various selections. The program was concluded with a brilliant rendition of Liszt's "Etude in D Flat" by Reia Topilsky.

A social hour followed when a dainty supper was served by Miss Tompkins with the assistance of Mrs. Jay C. Hamill.

Junior College Y. W. to Assist Needy Families

Baskets for needy families of Santa Ana and vicinity are being prepared by Santa Ana junior college Young Woman's Christian association, under the direction of Miss Marian Parsons.

Two clever programs are being planned by the students to be given at the Orange County hospital and at the detention home, this month.

The joint meeting of the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. will be held this month at the Methodist Episcopal church, with the Rev. Earl P. Cochran of Highland Park giving an address on "Russia."

Delightful indeed was the surprise party given by Miss Zephia Bacon recently at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Collar, of West Main street, Tustin.

The occasion was the young hostess' nineteenth birthday and she received many beautiful gifts. Games and dancing were the diversion of the evening, and at midnight dainty refreshments were served.

Guests present included the honoree, Miss Zephia Bacon, and the Misses Beth Collar, Blanche Horton, Eva Runnells, Dolly Mae Fowler, Edna Hicks, Mrs. Esther Runnells, Jack Beckman, Earle Horton, Gene Hall, Bab Arambul, and Mr. and Mrs. Pete Banks, John Brovier, and Harold Beckman, of Riverside, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Collar.

Proceeds From Party To Be Used for Veterans

When Christmas day dawns at the San Fernando hospital for disabled veterans of the World war it will be brighter because of the gifts that will be left there for the soldiers by members of the American Legion auxiliary of this city.

The gifts will be purchased by proceeds from the bridge party that the auxiliary is to present at the Legion hall on the night of December 10 at 8 o'clock, according to Mrs. C. W. Nussbaumer, chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for the affair.

Assisting Mrs. Nussbaumer in making plans for the party are Mrs. G. K. Soovel, Mrs. William Penn, Mrs. Otto Jacobs, Mrs. Walter Hill and Mrs. John Kenyon.

The committee has been working on prizes for the card games and also on gifts to be awarded for special scores. Interest in the prizes however has been centered in the cedar chest which is on display in a downtown window. The chest is filled with many articles which will be useful about the home and will be a lucky number prize.

Anyone who is planning to attend the party which will be one of the outstanding social events of the month is requested to phone Mrs. Nussbaumer at 3035-W for reservations.

Half Hundred Women Attend Bridge At Ebell

Nearly half a hundred women gathered in the lounge of the Ebell clubhouse yesterday for the delightful bridge party presented under the auspices of the Fifth Household Economics section of which Mrs. W. H. Haddon is leader.

The pretty affair was planned by Mrs. Fred Turner, Mrs. Carl Klatt and Mrs. Cood Adams who had arranged quantities of scarlet beret cateneaster about the room. The gay holiday motif was expressed in other details of the bridge.

Both progressive and contract bridge were played during the afternoon and when scores were added it was found that Mrs. A. V. Herr was high and she was presented with a pretty little lamp. Mrs. Ben Herr of Anaheim was second and she received a cheese and cracker dish while Mrs. Ben Baxter, third high, was given a set of glasses.

Auxiliary Glee Club To Present Program

The glee club of the auxiliary of the American Legion has been asked to present an hour's program Wednesday night at the Ebell club when members of the organization entertain their wives with cards and dancing. The program will precede the party.

Besides the group of popular songs to be presented by the glee club under Cecil Fross Whitte, solos will be offered by Edward Burns, cellist, Georgia Belle Walton, violinist, and Ruth Armstrong, pianist. The three will also do trio work and Miss Armstrong will accompany the glee club.

Robert Ethel Phillips Reviews Robinson's "Cavendar's House"

That Edwin Arlington Robinson is generally classed as one of America's foremost poets was the statement of Miss Robert Ethel Phillips last night when she reviewed his latest book, "Cavendar's House," at the Visel studio, 412 1/2 North Broadway.

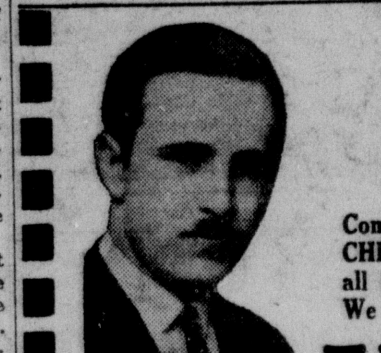

Miss Phillips' recent stay in New York where she was secretary of the Poets' guild brought her into contact with many poets of note, so her brief description of Robinson proved unusually interesting. She described him as very shy and sensitive, avoiding large gatherings and social functions with the excuse that they interfere with his work.

She said that he makes no effort to enlarge his circle of acquaintances, being satisfied with a small group of intimate friends. He devoted his entire time to his poetry which is his only source of income.

Miss Phillips' reading of the long poem was enjoyable and her brief explanations of some of the more obscure passages added to the interest. "Cavendar's House" is the story of a man, Cavendar, who returns to his empty house 12 years after he has murdered his wife in mind is disordered because of the crime and his uncertainty of her a moment of jealousy. The man's guilt and he believes that in some way he may learn whether his jealousy was justified.

While in the dark house his mind creates the image of his wife who discusses the thing with him but is unable to tell him anything that he does not know already as she is only the projection of his own mind.

Next Monday night Miss Phillips will review the recent work of another well known poet, Robert Frost.

Does Football Bore Women?

Sometimes I Think —BUT— Sometimes I Think It Does It Doesn't

By VELVA G. DARLING

"Pusher-in-the-Face," a movie I saw last night, isn't much as a motion picture. But the idea behind it is a masterpiece! The man who is the "pusher-in-the-face" sat—even as you and I—in front of three women at a matinee performance and listened to their loudly whispered conversation about their operations as long as he could stand it. Then he got up and pushed one of them right in the face! What is obviously needed at football games is a whole CREW of pushers-in-the-face to keep silent the women who become so obviously bored with football games. "Have you seen Grace's new baby?" "Isn't it the most adorable thing!" "Did you know Alice is engaged—his name is Muscovich or something terrible like that!" "But he's awfully good looking—"And I said I'd never buy a short skirt again and I'm letting my hair grow." During the first quarter the majority of women manage to keep interested in the game by looking at the numbers on the backs of the players' sweaters and identifying each number with the photograph printed in the program. But the remaining three quarters they spend assiduously applying lipstick, powdering their noses and chattering noisily with each other—bored to death with the game.

But sometimes I think football doesn't bore women. In the first place it is a sign of social prestige that one has tickets to attend football games with! Especially here on the Pacific Coast the possession of a ticket to the big game causes more furore than a new collapse on the stock market. The girl who has a football ticket—or a boy friend who can get her one—is the envy of the girls who haven't. THIS never bores women. Then there is the chance of flying to the game if you live a distance away—the sight of an evening sky darkening into night as the football stadium empties of its crowds, with hordes of automobiles roaring to get out first, and up over the purl of dozens of airplanes, each with a red-light on the tip of its tail wings and a green light at the tip of its tail wings its football fans homeward, is a thrill that bores no woman. And the chance to see about forty thousand new fall costumes and fur coats—which a football game brings with it—is simply too marvelous for any girl to miss.

Sometimes I think a woman has a perfect right to be bored at a football game if she wants to—after all it is only an incident in a vast afternoon's show, all of which—not just the game—is filled with thrills and feminine information. And yet I wouldn't be surprised that a goodly number of male pushers-in-the-face had been developed this fall at football games. The conversation of two or three girls who have just seen each other for the first time in a year is enough to drive a sincere observer of the game mad.

The WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLENE SUMNER

The weaker sex is quite strong in aviation—so strong, in fact, that 26 of its licensed women pilots have joined to form a national airwoman's association.

Appropriately enough, they did not draw up their rules and regulations over the tea cups at a smart hotel, but in a hangar at Curtiss Field, Long Island.

All the preparation that was needed was just for the mechanics to throw out the chisels and bracing bits, and other paraphernalia.

Strengthened ENTIRE SYSTEM

"I knew almost as soon as I began taking Sargon that it was a powerful, strengthening tonic, and I thought it was the very medicine I had needed all the time. And that's the way it proved out, for the change in my condition was remarkable. "My liver was slow-acting. I was tired and 'let down' with mighty little strength and vigor. My appetite was poor, I suffered a lot with headaches and nervousness and my whole system seemed filled with acid. I took eight bottles of Sargon, my appetite is splendid now, every trace of acid has disappeared, and my whole system is toned up and invigorated! I sleep good and feel fine all the time. Sargon Pills had a wonderful effect on my liver—cleaned my system of poison, and my headaches and biliousness are over."—Theodore Mathieson, 150 California St., San Francisco.

The MIXING BOWL by ANN MEREDITH

Pumpkin pie always makes me think of that childhood doggerel: "What are little boys made of? Sticks 'n' stones 'n' puppy-dog bones. And what are little girls made of? Sugar 'n' spice 'n' everything nice!"

The sugar 'n' spice 'n' everything nice just about describes a well-made pumpkin pie with its delectable suggestion of nutmeg, cinnamon and bitey ginger. To get these in right combination requires the discriminating taste of an Epicurus, but over that part I will draw a curtain while we discuss the mundane question of the pie tin used to bake this pie. Pie fillings with a lot of liquid in their make-up require either a heavy enameled pie pan or one of pyrex.

The pan must be thick enough to hold the heat and while the filling is forming into a custard, otherwise a soggy indigestible crust it the result. This pie is baked with only a lower crust, so we will safeguard it still further by slipping the crust

British Museum Library would all be great writers. But it is the essential quality. "Hard work and beauty may produce a successful actress. Hard work and the power of oratory, a politician. Hard work, courage, and a dash of that strange quality called charm will carry a woman anywhere.

"Courage I rank next to hard work because women need it much more than men. I wonder how much fine work has been lost to the world because women hated to be conspicuous, they having been taught for so long to keep carefully in the background?"

"Next to hard work and courage, I would put the capacity to live. No woman can have a successful life if she is entirely concentrated on her job. . . . It may not be her job to create children and a home, but she must create something. Unless that instinct is satisfied, the most brilliant career will not be a success. There will be a neurotic woman behind the facade of worldly achievement."

As a politician, I should say Miss Wilkinson is an excellent psychologist.

She hasn't risen to her present position without lots of good, sound understanding and accurate observation, as well as hard work and courage.

pertaining to mechanics, and dust off some benches, and the women went into executive session. The membership is to be limited to licensed women flyers and will be composed of pilots from different sections of the country. Since there must be a purpose to everything in these serious days, theirs will be to encourage interest in aviation and to interest women particularly in taking wings both for business and for pleasure.

They also will assist each other in securing positions as pilots, and do good deeds for each other generally.

Four women came to the meeting in their own planes. There were five National Air Derby flyers, and Amelia Earhart presided.

SUCCESSFUL WOMEN Ellen Wilkinson, British member of parliament, in discussing women and careers in the London Daily Mail, said:

"Hard work alone cannot produce successful women or those conscientious burrowers in the

TODAY'S RECIPE

Pumpkin Pie

2 eggs, separate

5 tablespoons sugar

2-3 cup pumpkin pulp

1-2 cups rich milk

1 tablespoon melted butter

1-3 teaspoon each, nutmeg and cinnamon

1-2 teaspoon ginger

Pinch of salt

Get the pie paste ready first. A good rule for pie crust is 1 cup of flour, 3 rounded tablespoons of shortening, salt, 3 tablespoons of ice water to mix. I find that cutting the icy-cold shortening into the flour so that it is the size of peas when mixed, gives a flaky crust.

Fit crust to plate, building up the edges well; slip into a 450-degree oven for 5 minutes, pour in the filling, lower the heat to 300

ALL-STAR CAST IN 'HOLLYWOOD REVUE'

Twenty-five of the foremost stars of film and stage appear in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer all talking, singing and dancing picture, "The Hollywood Revue," now showing in the Fox-Broadway theater. The picture opened yesterday and closes Thursday night.

Never before have so many stars been gathered in one picture, or has any one director attempted such a large show. It would be impossible to stage such a show on account of the scenery, costumes and sets used—only a moving picture could give such an entertainment.

Some of the stars who actually have leading parts in the revue are Marion Davies, John Gilbert, Norma Shearer, William Haines, Joan Crawford, Buster Keaton, Bessie Love, Charles King, Marie Dressler, Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy.

Laughs come thick and fast throughout the play and many of the favored actors and actresses are seen in roles entirely different from any they have portrayed before.

A Fox Movietone newsreel also is shown.

degrees and bake until the filling is nicely set but too firm—it tends to separate when baked too much.

Of course you will use canned pumpkin for convenience sake. Beat egg yolks, sugar, spices and salt to a froth, add the milk, slightly heated, the pumpkin and melted butter. Mix smoothly, fold in the stiffly beaten whites and bake as directed.

Delicately brown crisp fritters filled with cubed fruit and served with a good sauce leave nothing to be desired as a dessert. And croquettes, well made, can pass muster any time. Full description furnished free this week on receipt of your stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Upon the anchor Clowny perched while Mister Captain searched and searched. "I wonder," said the captain, "where that little scamp has gone. I saw him jump with all his might and promptly disappear from sight. I'll keep on looking for him through the night and up till dawn."

"Perhaps he's swimming in the sea. Oh, my but he was scared of me. Oh, well, I'm sure that it's his fault that he got in a mess. He is a little smarty lad. The other three are not so bad. But Clowny will not bother me from this time on, I guess."

"Course Clowny still was scared a bit. It wasn't very nice to sit upon an old iron anchor but he simply had to hide. "I want he spanking from the boss," thought he. "So I am at a loss to know just what to do so I can save my tender hide."

The captain now was down below. The others stood and watched him go and then they also looked around to find their little friend. Wee Scouty loudly said, at last, "Perhaps he's climbed up on the mast. Say, if he has and he should fall, 'twill surely be his end."

Just then they heard a loud voice shout, "Hey, mates! Quick! Toss the anchor out!" Down went the heavy anchor till it splashed upon the sea. "Course Clowny went right with the thing. Oh, my, what bad luck fate can bring. Then all the rest heard Clowny shout, "Hey, someone rescue me!" "Oh, look! He's in the ocean blue," cried Copsy. "Now what can we do? It's like to jump in after him, but that would be no good. Then there would be the two of us and that would only cause more fuss. The captain scared him overboard. I felt quite sure he would."

LIIONS

True Stories of the Ferocity of the African Lion
By Martin Johnson Author of "Safari"

of the big cats. I heard a thud, showing I had struck home on one of the pilferers. There followed a brief flurry. Then the gnawing again.

This time Osa shone her hand flashlight toward the body. Despite my missile there were a dozen hyenas, like huge maggots, devouring our bait. Often at such times we could get rid of them only by shooting one or two with a .22 calibre rifle. Warranted execution it was, when one recalled the cruelty of these jungle assassins. Their diet is usually half gazelles that are too small to run away; and then, when hamstrung the little things when not needing food.

Suddenly the pattering and sniffling of the hyenas ceased. An ominous grunt came from a thicket nearby. By this we knew that His Royal Highness had arrived. In a few minutes a grunting and gulping and crunching of bones told us that he had taken his place at the table, so to speak, tucked his napkin in his collar and was already happily feasting. Not that I criticized his table manners; but the noise, as usual, gave me a mental picture of some ponderous animal pitting down to Thanks-giving turkey.

When we thought he was about in the position we wanted him to throw our hand flashlight towards the dead zebra. To my surprise right in front of me was a big named lion sitting on his haunches, while behind him was another equally large gnawing away at the bait. Neither of them was disturbed. Like the other lions we photographed at night, they seemed to think that the torch was just a pleasant bit of moonlight emerging from behind a cloud.

Meanwhile two others came up from the rear and began to look over the cameras. This made me nervous. The moon was coming out and I was afraid that not only the lions but other animals might get tangled up in my wires if they began to investigate.

Then came an unexpected interruption. Without any apparent reason both whirled about and dashed off into the brush about a hundred yards away. The lion that had been eating rose a chorus of roars and howls. In the moonlight one could see a number of other lions running away across the plains, our visitors in pursuit.

"Guess they don't belong," laughed Osa.
The row went on for a mile at least beyond us and then quieted down. In a few minutes the lions were back at our zebra looking very satisfied with themselves.

But they wouldn't eat. There was still something on their minds, or else their appetites needed further stimulation. They weren't close enough to the cameras for a picture. And as more lions came to be heard coming up in the distance they showed restlessness.

About 11 p. m., a beautiful big tawny-colored lion came to the kill. He disregarded all the other lions; indeed, he could afford to as he was half again as big as any of the others, and powerful enough to have walked off with a full grown ox on his shoulders. A few minutes later another smaller and younger lion arrived who must have been his son, and then three pretty females with two handsome beaus. By this time it was a good big family party and all seemed to be pleased to find the table set and the food ready to set off the flash on the big fellow, Osa whispered: "Oh, wait until all seven of them start. Think what a picture it will make!"

But in a little while I couldn't stand it any longer. The lions were so self-possessed, and such a fine looking lot that I felt it was the chance of a lifetime.

I pressed the button. Nothing happened. I pressed again as hard as I could. Not a flicker. Hurriedly I pulled off the button and touched the same wires together. No result. Something was wrong. A whole day's work was thrown away if I couldn't fix my gear. And yet the fixing could be done only in the very midst of seven lions. It wasn't exactly an easy problem to solve. I did the only thing I could. I walked out toward the kill while Osa shouted to scare the lions away.

I say "scare," which may seem inconsistent with the lion's courage which I have lauded so highly. But I ask the reader to suppose that he is taking lunch at a sidewalk cafe and some un-intelligent laborer begins to shout unintelligible remarks and advance toward your table. If you wouldn't exactly be afraid of them, but it would seem a prudent thing to rise and see what on earth they were after. That is what the lions did. They weren't hungry enough to be ferocious. So when they heard our racket they left the meat and retreated for fifty or sixty feet.

Of course I was armed. I can't say I had either the courage or faith of Daniel. I carried a sawed off Ithaca riot gun. This might not kill a lion at close quarters, but it was calculated to drive the bunch "gang" me. Meanwhile Osa held her rifle aimed at the lions nearest me.

I worked for about fifteen minutes until I found the short circuit and repaired it. The lions watched every move I made. If anyone thinks this is a pleasant situation, even if he believes in the gentlemanly qualities of the lion, just let him go to the zoo and walk into the cage with all the lions.

When I finished and went back to our shelter the lions courteous-ly waited a few minutes and then returned to their meal. Several times again I was on the point of making a picture. But now all seven lions were so close again that I hoped to get the entire group in one film. The plan was spoiled, however, by one female coming over to investigate us. She came right up to where we were and sniffed away for all she was worth. But I guess we didn't smell as appetizing as zebra, for after a bit she rejoined the others.

The next thing that happened was for one of the big males to get the inspiration of looking into the mechanisms of our cameras and flashlights. He walked over to one camera and began tentatively to investigate one of the tripod legs with his teeth. In a few moments he pulled the whole camera over.

This was too much for me. I jumped up and hurled a heavy rock at him as hard as I could throw it. It caught him squarely in the ribs. He gave vent to a loud grunt and spun about, glaring in my direction as much as to say: "Did you do that, you big stiff?"

I was so angry that I yelled right back: "You bet I did! And I want you to leave those cameras alone!"

He looked surprised, as if it had suddenly occurred to him that it was my property.

However, his curiosity got the better of him and he went back to the camera which had fallen over and began to chew on it. (I have the wreck of the camera with me in New York if there are any doubts in the reader's mind about this yarn.) I yelled again. This time he dropped the camera and started for me; not a charge but just an audacious strutting to find out what the mischief I meant speaking that way to a full-grown lion on his native heath.

Luckily for both of us he touched the electric wire before he had gone far. This put another idea into his mind. He took the wire in his teeth and began to back away with it. I let my end go hoping that it would slide through his mouth, but he had his teeth sunk in between two strands. As a result he pulled down the batteries that had been lashed to one of the poles.

In my fury at seeing my fragile gear being wrecked by this vandal, I yelled again. The sounder paid no heed, but backed away still farther, carrying the distance of fifty feet. At last he calmly down and watched to see what my next move would be.

By this time my courage had become the righteous wrath of indignation. I went out and chased the whole crowd away again and tried to fix my apparatus. But the batteries that survived were too weak and the wires too tangled for any more use that night. I shook my fist at the derisive faces of the lions, gathered up and let the beasts finish their banquet undisturbed.

SOCIETIES ARRANGE PARTY FOR DEC. 31

A New Year's eve party that will give a fitting finish to 1929 and a welcome to the new year was planned last night at the Y. M. C. A., when representatives of six young people's societies met to arrange for their union social gathering December 31.

The party as planned contemplates the co-operation of most of the young people's societies of the local churches, with the exception of a few which have made plans for individual observances. A program of entertainment and social stunts, music addresses and devotionals will feature the evening.

Pointed to look after the details of the gathering, which promises to be of some importance, are to be appointed of large numbers and great interest to the young folks. The committee organization will be completed at another meeting to be held next Tuesday evening at the Y. M. C. A., to which representatives of additional societies are expected to come.

The Y. M. C. A. is turning over its entire equipment for the evening to the young people, and the secretaries are assisting in building a program that will mark a real event in the community life of the societies.

Slight improvement was seen today in the condition of Caleb Rash, foreman of the city street department, who was seriously injured last Tuesday morning at Bishop street and Broadway in a traffic accident.

Rash has never regained consciousness since he was knocked down by a cable used to tow a house down the street.

Rash is at the Santa Ana Valley hospital.

Carol singing yesterday was directed by Irene Schoepfle with Mrs. Marie Fowler at the piano.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—(UP)—Trading volume increased considerably on the stock exchange today as prices moved up to 15 points in the Dow Jones industrial average, and 10 to 20 points in a few others.

Tickers ran behind for a time as the final hour neared, but they quickly caught up again, although about 1,000,000 more shares changed hands in yesterday's session.

President Hoover's message to congress was the stimulating influence of the day. It was a message of confidence and unclouded buying orders from all parts of the country. These orders came in the form of a substantial margin and hence call money went begging at the official rate of 4½ percent in the outside market.

Speculative railroad shares featured the day on the theory that with the president's backing new consolidation plans would be soon put into effect. Little response in response to favorable mention of this industry by the president.

Good word for agriculture in the president's message helped wheat and cotton futures. New York quickly made up early losses and forged ahead.

CHICAGO BD. OF TRADE
CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—(UP)—General wheat, 10 to 12 points higher, and when on the Board of Trade here today as a result of the excited advance at Liverpool and Buenos Aires, both of which markets were 3½ to 4½ higher. There was profit-taking in the advance and selling took place, but the strength of the market was not shaken.

Corn and oats were borne upward on buying wave in wheat.

At the close wheat was 2½ to 3½ higher, corn was 1½ to 2½ higher, and oats 1½ to 2½ higher. Provisions were higher.

Edwin Fulton Pottinger, 34, of 1944 Hart street, Los Angeles, given a preliminary hearing in the court of Judge Eldon Stark in Anaheim, yesterday afternoon on a forgery charge, was bound over to the superior court for trial.

Pottinger is alleged to have signed the name of Frank Cook, of Anaheim, to an application card in order to obtain books from the Anaheim library.

Several employees at the Anaheim library identified the defendant as the man who appeared there on July 24, 1929, and asked to see books containing pictures of cornices. Books were taken from locked cases for his inspection, it was testified.

Pottinger is alleged to have secured part of a highly technical library by forging names to library cards, obtaining books from libraries in Los Angeles, Long Beach, Riverside, Anaheim, Redlands, Ontario, South Pasadena and other cities of Southern California, it was thought.

The activities of Pottinger, who is a mechanical engineer, were disclosed when he did not return the books to the libraries and the names whose names appeared on his cards were interviewed in regard to locating the books. More than 150 books were recovered in his home and are being held at the office of Herman Zabel at the sheriff's office.

Pottinger was arrested in Los Angeles and charged with petty theft. When the state was unable to obtain a conviction he was turned over to Orange county authorities.

TOO MANY ACTIVITIES

The numerous organizations with their varied and fine programs present a tremendous challenge to the loyalty of the citizens of our city and county. We suppose this is true everywhere, but it reaches a point where those who are trying to support all good enterprises, have to draw the line, realizing that the limit has been reached.

No one individual can attend, much less enjoy all the fine things that are presented to the people by the various organizations planning entertainments, lectures, etc. The truth is that the people of the county and of the city should exercise discrimination and judgment in making plans, expecting or depending upon the public for its support of those plans.

We are organized almost to the point of provoking discouragement and impatience. It seems as though whenever a group gets together for a specific purpose, a new permanent organization is the outcome, which proposes to function in some way or another. The city of Santa Ana would undoubtedly be better off if 50 per cent of our organizations would tomorrow disband, and agree to use their energy and power to make more effective the 50 per cent which remain in the field.

Every group, if it represents nothing more than a president and secretary, desires to carry on in a manner to give excuse for its existence, and that means contact itself in some manner with the public, and then insist that the individual units of this public, in order to be loyal to Santa Ana or the county, must aid in the particular enterprise, which means make a contribution or buy tickets to something or other.

The demands spread our efforts over so much space that they become ineffectual in spots. In consequence of this some things are bound to fail, and unfortunately some of the best things fall while some of the cheaper and inconsequential things succeed.

We wonder as we see some of these new enterprises start, whether it can be due to a failure of other organizations supposed to cover that particular field. If all of these various organizations are to continue, surely we should have a clearing house or a committee which could function in some manner so that there should be no conflict or as little conflict as possible in public gatherings of the same or similar type.

In some sections, the Chamber of Commerce does this very work by keeping a calendar.
We know it would be difficult to suggest to any particular organization that it ought to disorganize because every one of them would think that it was simply showing the oak back into the acorn—an utter impossibility. But at any rate, we ought at least to seriously question the wisdom of any new organization, and certainly there are some already in existence that can add to their work, any labor that is needed.

New York is to have an 80-story building. You can find more stories in Wall Street, however.

OIL ON TROUBLED WATERS

We want to voice our approval of Secretary of State Stimson's effort to utilize the Kellogg-Briand peace pact to bring peace and order into the situation in the Far East between China and Russia.

The nations of the world are prompt in favorable response. All of them seem to have so expressed themselves with the exception of Russia. Russia is silent as yet.

May it not be possible that the fact that this emanates from the United States and that the United States must needs go through another embassy in order to reach the Russian government is in part responsible for Russia's silence? There is a representative of the Chinese Government at Washington, so that Secretary Stimson conferred directly with him, but there is no representative of the Russian government there, so that Secretary Stimson was forced to negotiate through another, namely, France.

We believe that some day it will seem strange to us that as uncertain as the government is in China we recognize it as a government and negotiate its plenipotentiaries, but Russia, whatever may be said against it, its authority and power are attested by more than a decade of existence with an assurance of being in a more solid position than ever before, receives no recognition.

However, it is through the Kellogg Peace Pact that they must reach Russia. Russia has not yet become a part of the League of Nations, but it did sign the Kellogg Peace Pact. It will be difficult for Russia to continue her acts of war with the world against her, as will be evidenced by the response to Secretary Stimson's appeal.

WORTH REMEMBERING

We have just noted that there is $845,000.00 in the banks of California which have been left there for as many as ten or twenty years, supposedly forgotten by the ones who have deposited it in the banks.

Just think back, have you some money in the bank that you did not know of? We cannot recall any such instance. We have received distinct and accumulated jolts at times in our life over the reverse of this fact, that we didn't have money there that we thought we had there, but if you have, now is the time to recall the incident, for the Christmas time is upon us, and we can imagine no money that could be spent more freely than that which one did not suppose he had.

THE EBELL ARTISTS' SERIES

Friday of this week the first number of the Ebell artists course, the English Singers, will be presented.

The artists course ticket-selling campaign has been operating under two handicaps. The first and primary one is that there have been so many activities of various kinds in the nature of entertainment to be supported by Santa Ana valley people this fall that individuals, even though very interested, have begun to feel a pinch.

The second handicap has been the outstanding attractiveness, as an entertainment feature, of the second number on the course, Will Rogers.
His popularity is so great and his ability to entertain so well known that there undoubtedly has been an inclination to feel that the other two numbers in the series were mere second rate features which could be put over in a course, because of the desirability of a ticket to hear Will Rogers.

Friends who have heard the English Singers, however, have informed us that they render a concert of first class artistic merit. One even going a second time to hear them, which is an outstanding testimonial in the face of the multitude of entertainments which one can enjoy in this region.

The women have been working diligently to raise money for their clubhouse. Nor has it been a sporadic endeavor with them, it has been continuous for some years past and is facing them for some years in the future, this matter of paying their mortgage. In presenting this course they are far above the plane of beggars.
They are providing high class entertainment at some financial risk to themselves.

Everyone should be aware of his own financial limitations. He should not support the Ebell Artists' course if it means a sacrifice of some expenditure more necessary to his home or his self-respect. On the other hand, the most careful examination of the budget will reveal to many an one the financial possibility of hearing every number of this course, without the risk of finding that a single admission ticket for Will Rogers is unavailable because of the number of course tickets sold.

Chemistry now has divided an atom into two parts. Probably the result of research with drug store sandwiches.

THE COST OF ILLNESS

The chief reason for the fight against illness, of course, is the mental and physical suffering that it causes. A congressional committee, however, reveals that there are urgent economic reasons as well for striving to make this a healthy nation.

The 36,000,000 wage earners of the United States lose at least 250,000,000 work days a year because of illness, according to the committee. Figure that up in terms of dollars and cents and you'll realize what an enormous bill we pay for sickness.

Apparently the country is doing everything it can, though, to remedy matters. At any rate, the committee discloses that the United States has more physicians in proportion to its population than any other country in the world.
Nearly 1,500,000 people are employed in this country in connection with the care and prevention of disease.

No Occupation

San Diego Union

Even the census, which by virtue of 14 decennial repetitions has presumably settled into a calm and conventional routine, furnishes a spark of revolt for those hardy sons who demand a cause to fight for. Mrs. Florence Bayard Hill, national vice-chairman of the Women's party, has issued a broad-side calling upon the housewives of the Republic to revolt against the census practice of listing them as women of "no occupation." Keeping house, making a home, she contends, is an occupation—and not only that, but an occupation of the most fundamental importance.

Although the technique of this revolt is not specified—we are uncertain just what is to be done about it—we are willing to agree that the cause is righteous. If the housewives of the United States can think of anything to do, we advise them to do it. We offer them our distinguished assistance.

Contemporary experience offers no explanation for the fiction that classifies women as women who "work" and married women. If there is a harder worker than the woman who actually keeps house, and keeps her house as a home, we defy the whole army of census-takers to dig up one example. If there is a more specialized and adept an executive than the woman who manages a large household, we invite the census to offer him in evidence.

Housewives have the right to be listed under a classification benefitting their high calling; but the revolt against the "no occupation" listing is justified, not only by the rights of the women, but as relating to the accuracy of the census.

The Pullman University

New York Times

A news photograph of the University of Washington team studying under a professor as the train speeds to the scene of the next encounter will relieve many who were wondering what became of the curriculum in the football season. The photograph shows the young giants sitting with wrinkled brows in a private car, bent over their books, while in the aisle the professor stands construing or expounding as the case may be.

Nothing, of course, must interfere with the football schedule; every one in America understands that and would be quick to resent a dry pedagogic suggestion that teams should not jump 3,000 miles to demonstrate their athletic prowess. But any extent to which the quest for a B. A. can be fitted into the schedule is so much gained.

An enterprising faculty could simplify the procedure by getting out special train schedules when the team starts out. Something like this:

Lv. So. Bend 9:45 A. M.

Elkhart (Mathematics 4, Prof. Weevil) 10:30.

Toledo (Greek History, Prof. Scuggs) 11:30.

xCleveland (Luncheon) 12:30 P. M.

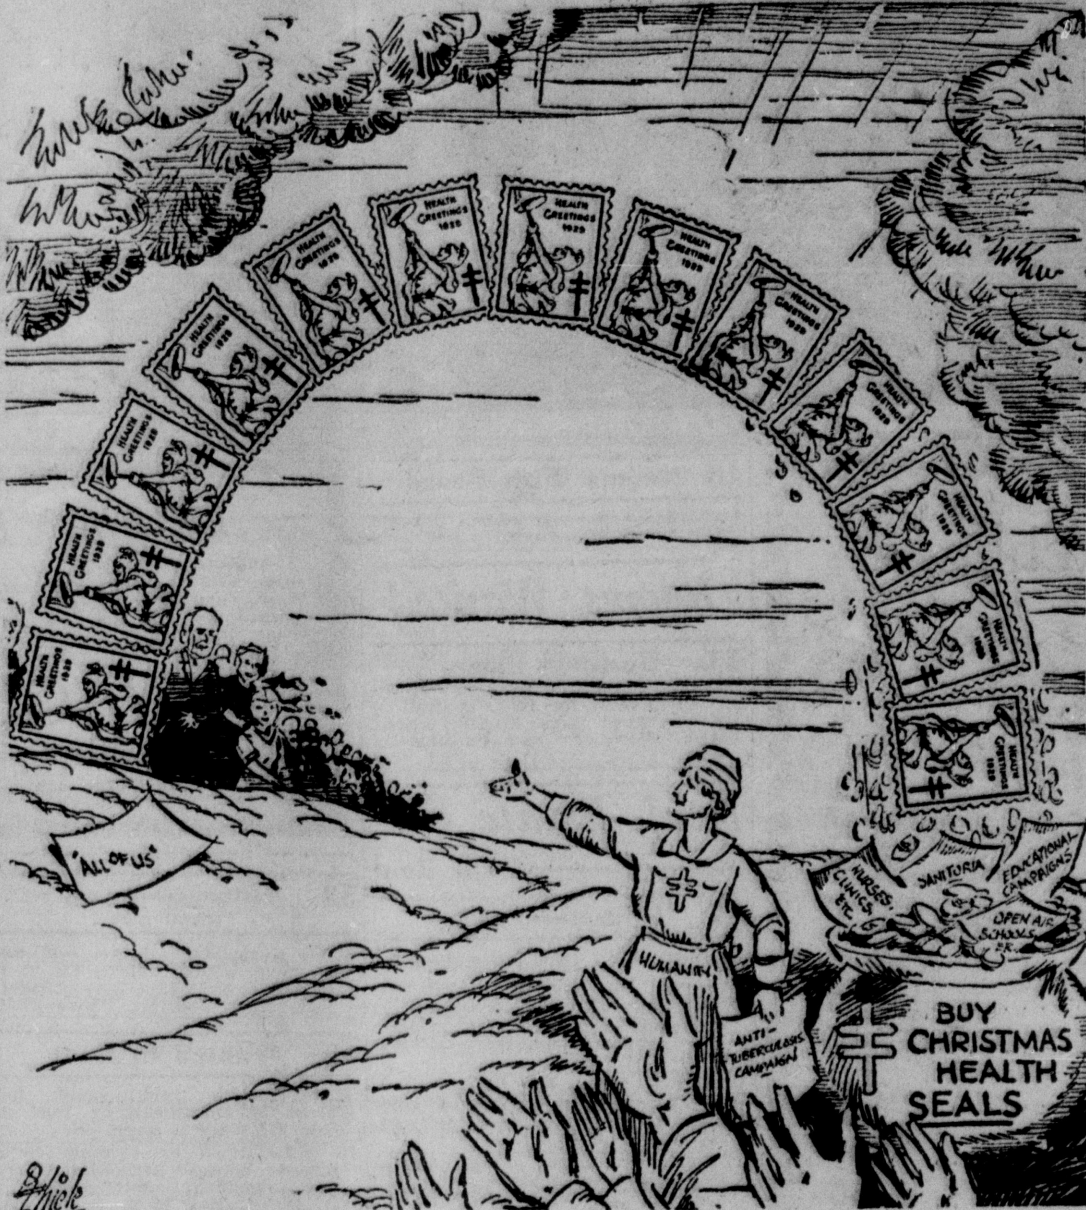

Lv. Cleveland (English Poetry, Prof. Katz) 12:45.

Erie (French, Prof. Gazat) 2.

Buffalo (dinner).

If placed on a competitive basis the railroads would probably print the scholastic time-tables free of charge.

Help Build A Rainbow!

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

YOUR DAD

Your dad can telephone to town
At breakfast time, and say:
"Hello! I guess I won't be down
To work at all today."
And then call up some man he knows
And say: "Don't tell a soul
But climb inside those plus-four clothes;
We'll make it five a hole."

Your dad don't ever go to church
When Sunday comes around
If there are any bass or perch
Or pick'ral to be found.
If you should ask him, he would say
The gospel that forbids
All fishin' on the Sabbath day
Is only meant for kids.

Your dad smokes cigarettes by packs,
And don't get sick at all.
They never give him heart attacks
And never kept him small.
But if kids use 'em, like as not They'd pine away and die;
So if you're little, you have got
To smoke 'em on the sly.

There's lots of things which you could do
That wouldn't hurt a bit.
The only trouble is that you Can't get away with it.
A kid must do just what he's bid
At school or work or play;
It's pretty tough to be a kid.
That's all I've got to say.

The President's Prosperity PlansBy WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

Since President Hoover called the recent conference of business and political leaders, for the purpose of sustaining employment through the expansion of public and private construction, the question has arisen whether it is possible, in this way, to provide jobs for everybody.

How, it is asked, can a horde of idle Pennsylvania coal-miners suddenly be moved to Colorado to build a dam?

The answer is that no such migration of labor is necessary.
The President's plan calls for increased expenditures in every State, in order to provide additional jobs, when, as, and if needed.

Even so, the question arises: How can such construction as President Hoover proposes—"buildings, railways, merchant marine, public utilities, and public works"—provide jobs for all those who want jobs? When a business depression sets in, most of the men and women who lose their jobs cannot put up steel structures, or pour cement, or even dig ditches.

That is true. But it is also true that expansion of construction adds to the demand for cement, steel, glass, lumber, and hundreds of other commodities—trucks, tools, architects' plans, and all the rest. For that reason, not all the money that is spent on a local job goes into local pay envelopes. Much of the money goes to wage-earners throughout the country.

It is impossible, for example, to spend $165,000,000 on the Boulder Dam—if this is a net addition to the wages of the country —without increasing the demand for labor throughout the country.
It is impossible even to spend $7,000,000 on the proposed East Boston Tunnel without, to some extent, stimulating business in nearly every State.

Moreover, nearly all the wages paid out, directly or indirectly, in building such a tunnel—or in building anything else—are promptly spent for shoes, candy, theater tickets, gasoline, ice, and the countless other things which make up family budgets.
This increases the demand for labor in every industry.

President Hoover's plan is sound. The expansion of private capital facilities and public works, at the right rate, is all that is needed to keep men employed and business active during the coming winter.

Sattidday afternoon I was sitting on my front steps leaning back comfortable, and the sun was shining on my face making me feel even lazier than what I felt by nature, thinking, G, this feels grate, who wants to jump and run around when they can be doing this instead?

Meaning nothing, and pretty soon
Puds Simkins started to go pass saying, Come on around to the store with us, Benny, you aint doing anything.

That's what you think, but it seems like plenty to me, I sed.

And I kep on sitting there just sitting there, thinking, This is all I want to do, this is the life for me. And Sam Cross and Glasses Magee started to go pass, Glasses saying, Hay Benny, we know where their pulling a whole house all down and you can see rite in all a ways up to the roof because there's no frunt wall any more, come on.

Ask me some day next year, Im too comfortable, I sed.

And they kep on going and pretty soon I herd Ma coming down stairs on her way out, calling to Nora, Where's Benny, Nora, have you seen Benny, his room is a disgrace and I want to remember to tell him to fix it up before I go out.

Me thinking, Heck, what the heck, I think Ill take a little wawk.
Wich I quick started to, wawk-ing fast till I got round the corner and then slow, thinking, If I knew where that house was they was talking about I mite wawk there and see it just for some place to wawk to.

And I just wawked around no place special for a while, being the hardest kind of a wawk, and I thawt, Well, she must be out now.
And I went back and set on our frunt steps a while feeling verse insted of better on account of being all tired, and I thowt, G, it wouldnt of took me long to fix my room and Ill properly have to fix it anyway, gosh, chang the luck I wish I had stayed and did it.

Proving what a lot of trouble people are libel to go to just to get out of a little bit.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By Glenn Frank

WHO SHALL RUN THE COUNTRY?

Elections are exciting affairs.

They are exciting because the masses, in their beautifully simple-minded way, think they are deciding who shall run the country.

If they be American masses, they heave a sigh of relief when they have decided whether the Republicans or the Democrats shall rule.

If they be British masses, they heave a sigh of relief when they have decided whether the Conservatives, the Liberals, or the Laborites shall rule.

But in all these Western nations the real question of rule does not lie between the political parties.

The competition for rulership is between the leadership that is being developed by our political life and the leadership that is being developed by our economic life.

And there is a difference as wide as the world between these two types of leadership.

These two leaderships flower from two radically different soils.
The political life of the Western nations is based upon an artificial quality.

The economic life of the Western nations is based upon a natural inequality.

Politics becomes a quest for the leader who is like the rank and file of the voters.

Economics wants the leader who is unlike the rank and file of the workers.

Democracy thinks its success depends upon finding leaders who will "think like us."

The result is that, by and large, throughout the Western world the best brains are drained off from politics into business and industry.

And from January first to December thirty-first of every year there is an unending tension and friction between the political and the economic leadership of the Western world.

The central problem of modern politics is to reconsider democratic theory to the end that democracy may turn naturally to masterful rather than mediocre leadership.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

THE HAPPY ENDING

Everybody cheers for the happy ending. A happy ending makes for a fine beginning and a fine beginning makes a happy ending and there you are all over again.
What happens today has its roots in yesterday. Now many things happened yesterday that we do not want to bring along into today so we leave them behind very cheerfully. That's the idea. Leave them all behind and cover them well with a blanket of sweet sleep.

Try to manage so that the children have cleared up all their home lessons, arranged their books and outer clothing for the next day. Then have a pleasant half hour of rest and recreation. No rough games, no noisy arguing.
Peace and cheerfulness.

Each child is thoroughly washed and brushed before going to bed.
He leaves the clothes he is to wear in the morning ready to put on without a moment's hurry or scurry. When he is tucked in for the night he can turn over with a contented mind. Everything is ready for tomorrow.
That day will begin right. It has to begin right because it starts out with a good preparation that carries on well into the morning.
The way is clear for the new day.

Many an unfortunate school day has been started by the poor ending of the day before. There were lessons to be prepared but the child did not do the work at the right time. One thing piled on the other until the child had to go to bed in a whirl of distress.

Thoughts of the day ahead and its troubles disturbed his rest.
A restless night made a late and weary rising. Things were not easy to find and the hurry and confusion further irritated a nervous system already on edge. The teacher was not pleased to discover poor preparation, poor attention, poor work and the trouble that was born the night before came into full power during the day.

It is easy enough for me to sit at my desk and write counsels of perfection for mothers who are struggling with a family of children—any one of which is a problem in itself. But I know what a help a good end of the day can be. It is worth striving for, worth planning for, worth all the insistence you can put into it.

Make a program, not too rigid, assign each child his work and his play time, so he knows what is expected of him, and plan to have the last half hour before bedtime a rest time. Take nothing for granted but see that things are done, preparations all made for the next day.

You will be delighted to see how cheerfully the youngsters will begin their day when things have been laid ready, breakfast on time, books, hats and coats ready to pick up without a moment's worry. Try for the happy ending that makes the good beginning.

ILLINOIS JOINS UNION

On Dec. 3, 1818, Illinois was admitted to the Union, with its boundaries between the Great Lakes and the Ohio and Mississippi rivers.

When it became a state, Illinois was in the throes of a period of wild land speculation as Indian titles to land within the territory had been extinguished.

Early immigrants who settled in Illinois came mostly from the south and brought with them a decided predilection of slavery.

After 1820, the people were hurried into an unhealthy era of sudden prosperity, resulting in a panic in 1842.

The state recovered rapidly, however, and at the outbreak of the Civil War Illinois was again prosperous, producing three-fifths of all grain exported to Europe, and ranked second in railway mileage.
